ALVIN KARPAVICZ,
ALSO KNOWN AS ALVIN KARPIS
KIDNAPING

Alvin Karpavicz, also known as Alvin Karpis, FBI number 199217, was one of the ringleaders of the notorious Karpis-Barker gang which terrorized the Midwest during the 1930s. Born in Canada on August 10, 1907, Karpis was brought to this country by his parents when he was two years of age and was first arrested in 1926 when he was sentenced to ten years at the State Industrial Reformatory, Hutchinson, Kansas, for burglary. Commencing with this initial incarceration, Karpis has had an extensive arrest record for such things as larceny, safe blowing, burglary and escape. In addition, Karpis was identified as being involved in four bank robberies during 1932 and 1933 and is believed to have participated in two additional robberies in 1933.

During late 1933 Karpis and others contemplated robbery of the Commercial State Bank at St. Paul, Minnesota, of which bank one Edward G. Bremer was President. While the planned bank robbery failed to materialize, Karpis and his gang on January 17, 1934, kidnaped Bremer and demanded $200,000 ransom. Upon payment of the ransom, Bremer was released on February 7, 1934. On May 4, 1934, Karpis and others were indicted by a Federal Grand Jury at St. Paul, Minnesota, for violation of the Federal Kidnaping Statute in connection with Bremer's abduction.

Prior to the Bremer kidnaping, Mr. William A. Hamm, Jr., of the Hamm Brewing Company was kidnaped at St. Paul, Minnesota, on June 15, 1933. A ransom of $100,000 was paid and thereafter Mr. Hamm was released by his abductors. Investigation determined that Karpis was one of the abductors of Hamm.

indictments returned in connection with the Hamm kidnaping and on July 27, 1936, he was sentenced to life imprisonment and subsequently incarcerated at the U. S. Penitentiary, Leavenworth, Kansas.

Recent newspaper publicity has indicated that Karpis, who has been incarcerated at the U. S. Penitentiary, Alcatraz Island, for several years, is seeking a deportation parole that would allow him to return to his native country. A subsequent news item indicated that Karpis has now been transferred to the U. S. Penitentiary, McNeil Island.

In view of the ruthless crimes perpetrated by Karpis, I wanted to let you know of the alleged efforts to get him released from prison. By reason of his notorious background, Karpis is certainly not entitled to any consideration.

A copy of this letter is being directed to Mr. Bennett asking that this Bureau be kept informed of any steps initiated to effect the release of Karpis from incarceration as well as any transfer within the Federal Penal System.

'Hood' Karpis Eyes Parole

BY NORMAN GLUBOK

After more than a quarter century, Alvin [Creepy] Karpis apparently has decided it's safe to come out of prison.

The 53 year old gunman pal of the late John Dillinger and George [Baby Face] Nelson will ask the federal parole board next July to permit him to leave the McNeill Island [Wash.] federal prison and return to his native Canada.

Karpis [born Karpavicz] waited 10 years after he first became eligible for parole before he applied for it. He is serving a life sentence for the kidnaping of St. Paul brewer William Hamm.

He had good reason to wait.

Many Charges

When the gates of Alcatraz clanged shut behind Karpis [who was said to be smarter than Al Capone and more dangerous than Dillinger] in 1936, he was wanted for the following additional crimes:

—A 1929 escape from the state reformatory in Hutchinson, Kas.

—The 1931 murder of Sheriff C. R. Kelly in West Plains, Mo.

—The 1933 robbery of the state bank in Ihlen, Minn.

—The $200,000 ransom kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, a St. Paul banker, who was held prisoner for 25 days in a rickety frame shack in Bensenville, northwest of Chicago.

In addition, Karpis was also implicated in the following offenses:

—The Kansas City Union station massacre, in which four officers and their prisoner were killed.

—The murder of John Lazia, a Kansas City politician.

—The slaying of A. W. Dunlap, father-in-law of his pal, Fred Barker.

—The $46,000 mail train robbery in Garrettsville, O.

Out—and In Again

Had he applied earlier for parole, Karpis might have been freed only to wind up in the electric chair or gas chamber or with another long prison sentence for one of his other crimes.

Now, presumably, the key witnesses are all dead or the local authorities have lost interest in prosecuting.

Karpis was born in Montreal of Lithuanian parents who emigrated to Chicago.

By the time he was 25, he had been jailed six times and had succeeded John Hamilton, a Dillinger lieutenant, as the FBI's public enemy No. 1.

Mother's Plea

When Karpis' pal, Baby Face Nelson, was shot to death in a gun battle near Barrington, Karpis' mother, Mrs. Anna Karpavicz, pleaded in an open letter in THE AMERICAN for her son to surrender.

"You are playing a game you cannot win," wrote the mother. But to no avail.

At that time, the family lived at 2842 N. Francisco av. where Karpis' father, John Karpavicz, worked as a janitor.

Altho he stood 5 foot.9 inches tall and weighed but 130 pounds, Karpis made up for his lack of size by his audacity.

He machine gunned his way out of several police traps and even sent a letter to J. Edgar Hoover threatening to kill him if the FBI chief didn't call off his G-men.

That turned out to be one step too far.

Hoover ordered a complete background study made of Karpis and an all-out search.

The FBI determined that he liked to hunt and fish, that he detested cold weather, and that the fast life of pleasure resorts appealed to him.

Hoover concentrated on Miami and New Orleans, and finally located his quarry.

When FBI men spotted Karpis in a New Orleans flat on May 1, 1936, Hoover flew in from Washington to lead the capture.

As Karpis and two others stepped into a car in front of their hideout, it was Hoover himself who gave the order to surrender.

'Just a Yellow Rat'

Karpis surrendered without a struggle.

The next day, as Hoover was delivering Karpis by chartered air liner to St. Paul to face trial in the Hamm kidnaping, the FBI chief told Chicago reporters who met their plane during a refueling stop on Midway [then Municipal] airport:

"He had boasted that he would never be taken alive, but we took him without firing a shot. That marked him as a dirty, yellow rat."

"He was scared to death. He was so damned scared he couldn't talk."

Karpis was convicted of the $100,000 Hamm kidnaping on July 27, 1936, and sentenced to life imprisonment.

He became eligible for parole 15 years later, in July, 1951.

He chose to remain in prison for a decade more, patiently waiting for witnesses against him to die or to disappear.

Last June he made his first application for parole. It was turned down.

Last month Karpis, who works as a baker and a business machine operator in prison and who paints landscapes in his spare time, applied again.

The parole board will decide in July whether Karpis is a suitable risk to be freed and deported to Canada as he desires.

When Karpis went to prison a quarter century ago, he left behind an infant son, Raymond, he had never seen.

Should the father win his freedom, he is not likely to be reunited with his son, 26, at least not right away.

Raymond Karpavicz, 26, only child of Alvin [Creepy] Karpis, is serving 5 to 10 years in Stateville penitentiary for burglary.

PERSONAL

Dear Boss:

Cincinnati paper carries an item with a March 24, St. Paul, Minnesota, (UPI) dateline, to the effect that Alvin Karpis will shortly be considered for parole.

In my opinion right-thinking people will want Karpis behind bars for the longest possible time.

Is there any way in which we can be helpful? Can editorials on this topic be used to help influence the Parole Board which will hear this matter sometime during the summer? Would the introduction of such editorials into The Congressional Record by friendly Congressmen be of any service?

If there is nothing we can do to help, we will stay quiet. On the other hand, our contacts are such that any public action would not in any way be traced to FBI. No action will be taken unless we hear from you to the contrary.

Sincerely,

E. D. Mason

KIDNAPING

For your information, Karpis, FBI number 199217, was one of the ring leaders of the notorious Karpis-Barker gang, which terrorized the Midwest during the 1930s. On 1-17-34, Karpis and his gang kidnaped Edward G. Bremer at St. Paul, Minnesota, and demanded $200,000 ransom. Upon payment of the ransom Bremer was released on 2-7-34. On 5-4-34, Karpis and others were indicted by Federal Grand Jury at St. Paul for violation of the Federal Kidnaping Statute in connection with Bremer's abduction.

Prior to the Bremer kidnaping, William A. Hamm, Jr., of the Hamm Brewing Company, was kidnaped at St. Paul on 6-15-33. A ransom of $100,000 was paid and thereafter Hamm was released by his abductors. Subsequent investigation determined Karpis was one of the individuals responsible for this kidnaping.

As a result of Bureau investigation, Karpis was apprehended at New Orleans, Louisiana, on 5-1-36. On 7-14-36, Karpis entered a plea of guilty to the indictments returned in connection with the Hamm kidnaping and on 7-27-36 he was sentenced to life imprisonment and subsequently received at U. S. Penitentiary, Alcatraz Island, California, on 8-6-36. He was transferred to Leavenworth, 2-27-58 and returned to Alcatraz on 9-21-58. About 1-30-62 Karpis was transferred from Alcatraz to the U. S. Penitentiary, McNeil Island, Washington, where he is currently incarcerated.

According to the warden at Alcatraz, Karpis during his incarceration at that institution was not a supervisory problem and it was considered he had earned the right for removal to another penitentiary where the discipline is not as severe as it is in Alcatraz. Karpis has been eligible for parole since 7-26-51, but waived a parole hearing by U. S. Board of Parole until 7-5-61, when his parole was denied. The Board of Parole, Washington, D. C., has advised that Karpis' case will not be considered again until July, 1962.

Letter to Washington Field
RE: ALVIN KARPAVICZ, AKA ALVIN KARPIS

Karpis in attempting to establish a parole plan has been corresponding with Frank A. Roberts, Director, Catholic Rehabilitations Service of the Federation of Catholic Charities, Incorporated, 15 Notre Dame Street, East, Montreal, Canada. Roberts has indicated his interest in assisting Karpis if he is paroled and deported to Canada. In this regard, it should be noted that Karpis was born in Canada on 8-10-07 and was brought to this country by his parents when he was two years of age.

For information of both offices, the Bureau has advised the Attorney General and Mr. James V. Bennett, Director, Bureau of Prisons, that in view of the notorious background of Karpis, it is believed he is not entitled to any consideration.

WFO is instructed to contact the U. S. Board of Parole and establish appropriate liaison to insure that the FBI will be immediately notified of any contemplated action to be taken in this case.

The Seattle Office is instructed through liaison at the U. S. Penitentiary, McNeil Island, to place a stop in the subject's file in order to be kept advised of any change in the subject's status. Appropriate arrangements should be maintained so that your office will be immediately advised should any developments take place concerning this status.

WFO and Seattle are to furnish information to the Bureau concerning the results of your contacts in this matter. The Bureau should be furnished results of your initial contact no later than 4-16-62.

Housewives Don't Read

WASHINGTON, OCT. 27, 61

A Chicago packing designer told Senators, that the housewife will not bother to read the additional information they believe should be put on packages at the supermarket.

The designer, Robert S. Dickens said in testimony prepared for the Senator Monopoly Subcommittee that "experience has shown us that women will not take time to read all of these details."

The Subcommittee, in its second series of hearings on food marketing prices, has been plugging hard for putting more accurate and more easily read information on packages.

Mr. Dickens, national president of the package designers council, said experience has shown us that most women will never bother to read opening instructions after a manufacturer has spent a fortune on a new and better closure, and we have spent days reducing instructions to utter simplicity.

Experience has taught us that even though there has been much irate clamor for "convenient" package openings, pouring spouts and other devices, she still will probably use her standard opener—the kitchen knife.

Experience has also taught us that it is almost impossible to create flags or other devices strong enough to be positive that the housewife will get exactly the right type of product for her purpose.

"We know that she is still prone to take home chili with beans when she actually wanted chili without beans—even though we put a flag on the can one-half inch high and two inches long" proclaiming the difference."

Another witness, E. Lee Feller, Goldwater, Michigan, replied

"Therefore, if a price increase becomes mandatory, as wages and other costs rise, it becomes less painful to reduce the quantity of product in the package."

But, Feller said in his prepared statement, he would agree that new weights should be displayed prominently.

Dickens said he believed weight was not an important factor in the decision to buy many items. There are many products, he said, for which price-per-ounce has absolutely no meaning.

However, both witnesses went along with some of the Subcommittee's ideas. Mr. Dickens said he would favor having a designated area on the face of each package for weight information, having all weights broken down in ounces, and giving the information in violation of the Federal colors available.

The American Way

If we let the legislators know enmasse and in no uncertain terms what we expect from them if they are to expect votes from us, we can be sure that they will listen to us in the same way they now listen to Big Business and Big Labor Unions—United Consumers of America.

Labor is entitled to just wages. Management to just profits, the Consumer to just prices. The Consumer can impose his will upon both Labor and Management if he really cares to try. But a reasonable balance will never be reached until the Consumer organizes.

High Nutrition

It is a common misconception that the higher-price cuts of meat are "more nourishing" than the lower-priced cuts. The fact is that all lean meats—beef, veal lamb and pork—supply approximately the same quantity of high efficiency protein, as well as a significant complement of B vitamins and essential minerals. Lean pork exceeds all other high protein foods in its content of thiamine.

Food And Drug Reports

A Federal Court has recently sustained the Food and Drug Administration's finding that a drug nationally promoted for reducing is worthless for that purpose.

The drug, phenylpropanolamine, is contained in a large number of preparations sold over-the-counter as appetite depressants. The Food and Drug Administration has filed more than 20 court actions against such products. Promoters of two of them, RX-120 and ND-17, have now been held in criminal contempt of court for continuing to ship products containing the drug despite an earlier restraining order and injunction.

The action sustains FDA's earlier findings based on clinical research that phenylpropanolamine is worthless as an appetite depressant. The only safe and sure

Legislators Sometimes Pick our Pockets

It All Depends On You

There's a lot of publicity these days from high places to the effect that the American public and consumers need protection from everyone and everything in business, except, of course, from themselves. Maybe one of these days, we'll see a law passed Protect You From You. There's no question that a mere minority of companies always have and always will take advantage of the gullible, uninformed or incompetent much the same as a minority of human beings will try to put one over on their fellow men, and sometimes even a too-trusting vendor. Continuing quote from the Better Business Bureau. That's the inhuman part of human nature and further proof of the impossibility of legislating everybody's morals whether they're in business or ordinary citizens.

No amount of super-plan, by well-intentioned or other sources is going to take the place of wisdom of taking care of yourself, and the foolishness of taking chances in dealing with strangers, reputation-unknown firms, leaping before you look and not watching what you do with your personal life and money. obscurity, homework is again in the limelight. The Educational Policies Commission classes homework as one of ten contemporary issues in elementary education. Boards of education are adopting official policies on the subject. Administrators are appointing committees to study its problems. Articles in both pro' and con's. Parents are asking for homework, or else more of, for their children. And, "Have you done your homework?" is probably the No. 1 question at the family dinner table today.

This resurgence of interest in homework is a outgrowth of a demand for higher scholastic standards generally and for better performance in college specifically. There is nationwide concern over the fact that only about half of those who enter college ever graduate. The largest number of dropouts occurs in the crucial freshman year. Since many of these failures are due to inadequate command of the fundamental processes, to poor self-discipline, and to lack of study skills, more and more attention is being turned to the quality of the student's earlier preparation.

Because all later learning builds upon the work of the lower grades, the feeling is spreading that more homework will help solve the problem of achievement. As a consequence, not only do we find a tendency to increase the amount of homework in the intermediate and upper grades, but some schools are introducing homework in the primary grades, beginning in grade one.

Quoting Eleanor M. Johnson, Director, Elementary School Publications, Wesleyan University. The secondary school, too, is rethinking it's ideas about homework because of the gradual disappearance of the traditional study hall. If this trend continues it will, of course, inevitably increase the pressure on home

Just A Tip

After you have patched some holes or cracks in a plastered wall—and before painting over them, sandpaper the patched areas when they are completely dry and then apply a coat of shellac to them. The shellac will seal the porous plaster and prevent its absorbing your fresh paint and "bleeding" through to spoil the appearance of your paint job.

Flat paints and enamels are recommended for ceilings and walls in most rooms because they reflect light with less glare than do semi-gloss and gloss coatings.

those parts of its regulations under the new law which spell out in detail the placement on the label, type size, and color contrast requirements for the information called for by the law.

The Food and Drug Administration feels that its own investigations and information together with that submitted by the affected industries indicated that additional time was necessary for compliance with those parts of the new regulations. The Food and Drug Administration is emphasizing the fact that the information required by the law must be on the label and located prominently, conspicuously, and in a legible type in contrast by typography, layout or color with other printed matter on the label.

Under the new ruling, temporary labeling, such as sticker labels, may continue to be used while manufacturers are redesigning packages and using up existing supplies of packaging materials.

Air Purifiers

The Food and Drug Administration's opinion that household air purifiers commonly sold in retail stores are not effective in preventing or treating respiratory ailments, sinus trouble or allergy conditions has been sustained by a recent court action involving a nationally promoted of such devices.

The decree filed in the District of Columbia drastically limits the health benefits which may be claimed for household air purifiers.

Experiments conducted by FDA have shown that such devices have no significant effect in ridding the air of contaminants and dust and will afford no relief to sufferers of asthma, hay fever, allergies and sinus conditions. Manufacturers of devices of this type are prohibited from making claims for their product similar to those mentioned above.

meant to point out, advising without thought of return," but "to buy" meant to "exchange equal values." The first is a philosophy of waste, the second a philosophy of intelligent use of money and goods.

Frankly, over many years of research of consumer attitudes and economics, I have come to believe that what this country really needs is not a vast increase in our Gross National Product, but a good husky growth of Consumer know-how in the daily business of trading money for goods so as to get an "equal exchange of values."

Once of course we did quite well by depending on the three good old measuring-sticks of sight, touch and price. But this was before the great industrial explosion brought floods of brand new materials, services, products and ideas into our lives. Today they not only will not tell you anything important about what you buy,—they may actually mislead you seriously. Sight,—that is the appearance of anything, can only tell you whether you like it or not; touch can tell you texture,—that's all; and price today is an accomplished liar. What we all want to know about most of the things we buy is,—how will they perform in use, and how long will they go on looking and doing as they did when new?

Plainly we need a new set of measuring-sticks in every field of buying, and the educated judgment of consumers in the use of those measuring-sticks. Actually intensive and long consumer research convinces me that the best Blueprint for a New Consumer Education rests firmly on three simple blunt questions that ought to be asked of every single product before we buy.

These three questions are: What's it made of? What will it do? and —WHO SAYS SO?

Take textiles. The Textile Fibers Products Identification Act is now a law,—and its purpose is to tell you what fabrics "are made of". There are sound and good reasons for knowing,—they vary in character, in performance and in intrinsic value. They even vary performance standard or the American Standards Association comes in. It is probably the greatest step forward in helping responsible consumers exercise their judgement and evaluate wisely, anything that has happened in generations. This statement on a label answers the question "What will it do?"

But there is that last and perhaps most important question of all,—WHO SAYS SO? That is,—what proof is there, who stands behind the claim, how were the tests made,—and how competent were the testers? In both the case of the law for identification and the L-22 performance standard the authority for the statement is provided and a means of checking its validity. We can know who says so.

But neither of these practical and progressive steps will be of the least use to us or the consumers who come after us, if we do not use them, with both intelligence and judgement. Neither law nor standard make it unnecessary for us to use our heads; neither is a magic formula for shutting your eyes and getting your money's worth.

We must, I think, face the hard truth that unless we want the day to come when some "expert" in or out of government will tell us what and where to buy, we shall have to buckle down to learning the art of evaluation. We shall have to find and ask for new measuring-sticks, we shall have to learn to weigh and measure one material, one service, one guarantee, against another and check them against each individual requirement and pocketbook.

There is nothing easy about this. It will take our best heads, our best skills. But it's a big calling, a great project. Let me recommend to the Greater Cincinnati Consumer Conference, with its national reputation for leadership in consumer protection and information, that this be a target for their thought and work. Let us all, working together, find ways to answer: What's it made of? What will it do? and WHO SAYS SO?

Consumer Index

WASHINGTON: The government's Consumer Price Index and other economic barometers will be changed soon.

The Budget Bureau said the indexes will compare current prices, production wages and other economic data with 1957-58 instead of the 1947-49 figure in the past. It said more recent comparison would be more meaningful.

Just A Tip

The danger of small children falling from a second-story window can be eliminated by the installation of some protective bars across the window. Cut some lengths of 1/2 inch pipe, the width of the window, and set these into holes drilled into wooden spacer, attached inside the sash track.

Present Population

If the present population of the world is represented by 1000 persons living in a single town—60 persons would depict the population of the U.S.A. and 940 would portray all the other nations.

The 60 Americans would live one-half the income of the entire town, and the 940 other persons would share the remaining half.

Three hundred and three persons in the town would be white—697 would be non-white.

The 60 Americans would have an average life expectancy of 70 years, while the other 940 would have an average of under 40 years.

It is not too difficult to understand why much of the world looks upon the U.S.A. with suspicion and envy, rather than with feelings of trust and brotherly love.

Let's Improve Homework

After some years of relative obscurity, homework is again in the limelight. The Educational Policies Commission classifies homework as one of ten contemporary issues in elementary education. Boards of education are adopting official policies on the subject. Administrators are appointing committees to study its problems. Articles in both pro' and con's. Parents are asking for homework, or else more of, for their children. And, "Have you done your homework?" is probably the No. 1 question at the family dinner table today.

This resurgence of interest in homework is a outgrowth of a demand for higher scholastic standards generally and for better performance in college specifically. There is nationwide concern over the fact that only about half of those who enter college ever graduate. The largest number of dropouts occurs in the crucial freshman year. Since many of these failures are due to inadequate command of the fundamental processes, to poor self-discipline, and to lack of study skills, more and more attention is being turned to the quality of the student's earlier preparation.

Because all later learning builds upon the work of the lower grades, the feeling is spreading that more homework will help solve the problem of achievement. As a consequence, not only do we find a tendency to increase study. But simply increasing the emphasis on homework will not necessarily produce better scholarship. Unless we can have a better quality of homework, "the end will be worse than the beginning."

The parent's part to improve homework when they; co-operate with the school in making homework effective.—Provide their children with suitable study conditions (desk, light, books, supplies) reserve time for homework, silence the telephone, turn off the television, and turn away visitors—Encourage their children but avoid undue pressure—Are interested in what their children are doing but do not do their work for them.—Understand what the school expects homework to accomplish.

After you have patched some holes or cracks in a plastered wall—and before painting over them, sandpaper the patched areas when they are completely dry and then apply a coat of shellac to them. The shellac will seal the porous plaster and prevent its absorbing your fresh paint and "bleeding" through to spoil the appearance of your paint job

Flat paints and enamels are recommended for ceilings and walls in most rooms because they reflect light with less glare than do semi-gloss and gloss coatings.

Labeling Act Becomes Effective

The Food and Drug Administration is reminding manufacturers of household chemical aids that the new labeling requirements of the Federal Hazardous Substances Labeling Act become fully effective on February, 1962.

At the same time, FDA said it was suspending until August 1 those parts of its regulations under the new law which spell out in detail the placement on the label, type size, and color contrast requirements for the information called for by the law.

The Food and Drug Administration feels that its own investigations and information together with that submitted by the affected industries indicated that additional time was necessary for compliance with those parts of the new regulations. The Food and Drug Administration is emphasizing the fact that the information required by the law must be on the label and located prominently, conspicuously, and in a legible type in contrast by typography, layout or color with other printed matter on the label.

Under the new ruling, temporary labeling, such as sticker labels, may continue to be used while manufacturers are redesigning packages and using up existing supplies of packaging materials.

Air Purifiers

The Food and Drug Administration's opinion that household air purifiers commonly sold in retail stores are not effective in preventing or treating respiratory ailments, sinus trouble or allergy conditions has been sustained by a recent court action involving a nationally promoted of such devices.

Evaluation Your Best Buying Insurance

by Margaret Dana for the Consumer Conference News

It may never have occurred to you that there is a world of difference between spending and buying. Even the ancient roots of the two words highlight that difference; "to spend" originally meant to "pour out, lavishly without thought of return;" but "to buy" meant to "exchange equal values." The first is a philosophy of waste, the second a philosophy of intelligent use of money and goods.

Frankly, over many years of research of consumer attitudes and economics, I have come to believe that what this country really needs is not a vast increase in our Gross National Product, but a good husky growth of Consumer know-how in the daily business of trading money for goods so as to get an "equal exchange of values."

Once of course we did quite well by depending on the three good old measuring-sticks of sight, touch and price. But this was before the great industrial explosion brought floods of brand new materials, services, products and ideas into our lives. Today they not only will not tell you anything important about what you buy,—they may actually mislead you seriously. Sight,—that is the appearance of anything, can only tell you whether you like it or not; touch can tell you texture,—that's all; and price today is an accomplished liar. What we all want to know about most of the things we buy is,—how will they perform in use, and how long will they go on looking and doing as they did when new?

Plainly we need a new set of measuring-sticks in every field of buying, and the educated judgment of consumers in the use of those measuring-sticks. Actually intensive and long consumer research convinces me that the best Blueprint for a New Consumer Education rests firmly on three acutely in their effect on human allergies. But even knowing what a piece of fabric is made of is only the start. Unless wilful waste and indifference to value is the kind of status symbol you value you what to know what that fabric will do when it's put to use, and how long it can reasonably be expected to go on so performing. That's where L-22, the Textile Performance Standard of the American Standards Association comes in. It is probably the greatest step forward in helping responsible consumers exercise their judgement and evaluate wisely, anything that has happened in generations. This statement on a label answers the question "What will it do?"

But there is that last and perhaps most important question of all,—WHO SAYS SO? That is,—what proof is there, who stands behind the claim, how were the tests made,—and how competent were the testers? In both the case of the law for identification and the L-22 performance standard the authority for the statement is provided and a means of checking its validity. We can know who says so.

But neither of these practical and progressive steps will be of the least use to us or the consumers who come after us, if we do not use them, with both intelligence and judgement. Neither law nor standard make it unnecessary for us to use our heads; neither is a magic formula for shutting our eyes and getting your money's worth.

We must, I think, face the hard truth that unless we want the day to come when some "expert" in or out of government will tell us what and where to buy, we shall have to buckle down to learning the art of evaluation. We shall have to find and ask for new measuring-sticks, we shall have to learn to weigh and measure one material, one service, one guarantee, against another and check them against each individual requirement and pocketbook.

Stretch For Good Posture

For good health and posture the simplest exercise is stretching. Mark a spot on the wall just above easy reach, and stretch up to it every day. Lift arms and reach for the ceiling. Stretch neck out of body.

To reduce a dowager's hump drop head forward on chest. Then slowly raise it and tilt it back as far as it will go.

To work off a double chin lie flat; raise head two inches; then lower it. Be sure not to raise shoulders. Or—swivel head keeping mouth wide open all the time.

To slim upper arms, standing, raise one arm over head as high as possible. Shake it vigorously. Repeat with other arm. This takes persistence for results.

committee that "experience has shown us that women will not take time to read all of these details."

The Subcommittee, in its second series of hearings on food marketing prices, has been plugging hard for putting more accurate and more easily read information on packages.

Mr. Dickens, national president of the package designers council, said experience has shown us that most women will never bother to read opening instructions after a manufacturer has spent a fortune on a new and better closure, and we have spent days reducing instructions to utter simplicity.

Experience has taught us that even though there has been much irate clamor for "convenient" package openings, pouring spouts and other devices, she still will probably use her standard opener—the kitchen knife.

Experience has also taught us that it is almost impossible to create flags or other devices strong enough to be positive that the housewife will get exactly the right type of product for her purpose.

"We know that she is still prone to take home chili with beans when she actually wanted chili without beans—even though we put a flag on the can one-half inch high and two inches long" proclaiming the difference."

Another witness, E. Lee Feller, of Coldwater, Michigan, replied to an often-repeated charge of the Senate group—that manufacturers are deceiving many consumers by reducing the contents of their packages without any announcement.

Feller, general manager of Alliance Associates, a company supplying services for distributor-controlled brands of food products, said "the simple facts of merchandising life are that if we increase the retail price of an item that has an established price in the consumer's mind, sales will fall off sharply.

for in the decision to buy many items. There are many products, he said, for which price-per-ounce has absolutely no meaning.

However, both witnesses went along with some of the Subcommittee's ideas. Mr. Dickens said he would favor having a designated area on the face of each package for weight information, having all weights broken down in ounces, and giving the information in violation of the Federal colors available.

The American Way

If we let the legislators know en masse and in no uncertain terms what we expect from them, if they are to expect votes from us, we can be sure that they will listen to us in the same way they now listen to Big Business and Big Labor Unions—United Consumers of America.

Labor is entitled to just wages. Management to just profits, the Consumer to just prices. The Consumer can impose his will upon both Labor and Management if he really cares to try. But a reasonable balance will never be reached until the Consumer organizes.

Like Barnum said, there's a sucker born every minute. Most foolish of fools are those many wishful thinkers who dream that they're an undiscovered George Gershwin or Irving Berlin. Therefore, they will part with several hundred dollars for setting words to music or the reverse just because an outfit with an apt name and a California or New York address leads them to believe that it will aid them in becoming a millionaire with their name on millions of copies of music and phonograph records. Don't waste your money and hope on such expensive tripe. Quote from Better Business Bureau.

Food And Drug Reports

A Federal Court has recently sustained the Food and Drug Administration's finding that a drug nationally promoted for reducing is worthless for that purpose.

The drug, phenylpropanolamine, is contained in a large number of preparations sold over-the-counter as appetite depressants. The Food and Drug Administration has filed more than 20 court actions against such products. Promoters of two of them, RX-120 and ND-17, have now been held in criminal contempt of court for continuing to ship products containing the drug despite an earlier restraining order and injunction.

The action sustains FDA's earlier findings based on clinical research that phenylpropanolamine is worthless as an appetite depressant. The only safe and sure method of weight reduction is to reduce food intake preferably under the guidance of a physician.

The restraining order and injunction were issued in 1959 against claims that phenylpropanolamine could cause a person to lose 49 pounds in 8 weeks, 9 pounds in 10 days; that weight reduction could be accomplished without a special diet; that the product depresses the appetite, and others. These claims were made in violation of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act.

With modern medicine doing so well at increasing our life we'd better be careful about adding to the National debt—we might have to pay it off ourselves, instead of passing it on.

Program Planning

The Consumer Conference of Greater Cincinnati is sponsored by the School of the School of Home Economics, College of Education and Home Economics of the University of Cincinnati. The Conference, the largest and oldest consumer group in the United States, is nationally known for its educational work and support of legislation in the interest of consumers. Since 1934, it has held regular monthly meetings and for 17 years has published a monthly newsbulletin for its members. The conference offers the following subjects which a member of the consumer will speak on before your group. No fee is asked but transportation is requested. For further information, call Mrs. A. D. There's a lot of publicity these days from high places to the effect that the American public and consumers need protection from everyone and everything in business, except, of course, from themselves. Maybe one of these days, we'll see a law passed to Protect You From You. There's no question that a mere minority of companies always have and always will take advantage of the gullible, uninformed or incompetent much the same as a minority of human beings will try to put one over on their fellow men, and sometimes even too-trusting vendor. Continuing quote from the Better Business Bureau. That's the inhuman of human nature and further proof of the impossibility of legislating everybody's morals whether they're in business or ordinary citizens.

No amount of super-planning by well-intentioned or other sources is going to take the place of wisdom of taking care of yourself, and the foolishness of taking chances in dealing with strangers, reputation-unknown firms, leaping before you look and not watching what you do with your personal life and money. If you really want to do what's right for yourself and family, there are plenty of advisory and information agencies, helpful and business experts and professional sources to assist you free or at practically little or no expense Before You Get In A Jam or Deal With The Few Crooks Or Shysters in Business Or Among The Public At Large that are looking for dumb you. Beyond using your good sense, if you depend upon yourself being an expert in everything at all times, and upon the government to take care of the innocent and trusting you, you're going to have plenty of lumps on your head and holes in your pocketbook.

Mr. dear J. Edgar Hoover:

Thought you might like to see a copy of the following letter to Mr. Jas. V. Bennett:

At our monthly meeting, Tuesday, March 27th, I was instructed to send you the following message:

"Our members do not consider it wise to release Alvin (Creepy) Karpis. His record is such a long one of continuous criminal activity of so many years standing, it would not seem possible for him to adjust to society and not revert to a lifetime of crime.

There was heated discussion relative to his request for deportation to Montreal. Canada is very careful in their reception of any of their citizens with criminal records. Our group does not think that Canada would consider reinstating him as a citizen nor that the Catholic Charities of Canada would consider sponsorship. To quote the expression of several, they thought the last paragraph of attached news article "WAS JUST DUCK SOUP".

Any expression will be appreciate as there may be more to this case than the present news article indicates. Our next meeting will be April 17th."

No Reason for Leniency

Alvin (Creepy) Karpis, onetime co-leader of the notorious Barker-Karpis gang of kidnapers and killers, wants out. He believes that 25 years of good conduct behind the bars of Alcatraz Prison have earned him his freedom. We are not impressed with this argument. Those who remember some of the murderous rampages of his ruthless, machine-gunning mob have always felt that "Creepy" was lucky when he was sentenced to life for the $100,000 ransom kidnaping of William Hamm, jr., Minneapolis brewer. Most of his associates were less fortunate. They died in gun battles with FBI agents.

Karpis and his gang were involved in numerous bank robberies in which employes, policemen or spectators were gunned down with rifles, machine guns or pistols. Three policemen and a bank employe were slain in two bank raids in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area, a sheriff was shot to death in Missouri, a bank guard was killed in Chicago and other persons were wounded in similar forays in the Midwest during the gang's heyday in the early 1930s. The gang collected $300,000 ransom in two kidnappings—that of Mr. Hamm and another in which Edward G. Bremer, of the St. Paul banking family, was the victim.

The kidnappings brought the Federal Bureau of Investigation into the hunt for the gang, with dramatic results. "Ma" Barker and her son Fred were killed in a gun battle with the FBI in Florida, Arthur (Doc) Barker was sent to Alcatraz and other members were captured and given varying sentences. However, Karpis managed to elude the FBI, meanwhile sending taunting postcards to Director J. Edgar Hoover. But Mr. Hoover personally led the group of FBI agents who finally tracked him down and arrested him, without gunplay, in New Orleans on May 1, 1936.

State authorities decided not to press numerous murder and robbery charges after Karpis was sent to Alcatraz for life. There is nothing, however, in this man's record which would justify any leniency. His good behavior in prison hardly atones for the atrocious crimes which he and his colleagues committed when they were terrorizing the whole Midwest some thirty years ago.

Dear Steve:

Your letter postmarked April 16th, with enclosure, has been received.

For your information, on the afternoon of May 1, 1936, it was determined that Alvin Karpis, with Fred Hunter and Connie Morris, was located in Apartment One, 3343 Canal Street, New Orleans, Louisiana, where Hunter maintained a residence under the name of Ed O'Hara. The apartment building in which Karpis and the others were located was surrounded by Special Agents of this Bureau at approximately 5:30 p. m. on that date, and as the Agents were about to enter this apartment building, Karpis and Hunter emerged. They were commanded to surrender and complied peacefully. After the capture of Karpis, he was removed to Saint Paul, Minnesota, and committed to the Ramsey County Jail while awaiting trial.

In accordance with your request, I am enclosing some material which I hope will be of interest to you. There is no charge for any publications we are privileged to disseminate; therefore, I am returning the $1.00 bill you sent.

Washington Field Office advised on 9-19-62, that the United States Board of Parole on 9-6-62, recommended there be no change in the status of Karpis, who is currently incarcerated at the U. S. Penitentiary, McNeil Island, Washington. This decision by the Board of Parole followed a review by the entire board of the annual report concerning Karpis.

Karpis was one of the subjects responsible for the 1933 kidnaping of William A. Hamm, Jr. and the 1934 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer. Following his apprehension at New Orleans on 5-1-36, Karpis entered a guilty plea to the indictments returned in connection with the Hamm kidnaping. On 7-27-36, Karpis was sentenced to life imprisonment and has been incarcerated since that time. On 7-5-61, the Board of Parole denied his request for parole.

In January, 1962, newspaper publicity indicated Karpis was seeking a deportation parole that would allow him to return to Canada, his native country. The Bureau went on record with both the Attorney General and Mr. Bennett as being opposed to any consideration being given to this ruthless criminal.

A review of the current bulky exhibits maintained by the Laboratory Division has been completed.

With regard to the case captioned "CANAB" (Crash of National Airlines DC-6B, Bolivia, North Carolina, 1960), SA William R. Hellman, Jr., advises that the photographic negatives taken of the plane during reconstruction should be retained at this time for an indefinite period for possible use in the future.

Concerning the case captioned "John Gilbert Graham" (Crash of United Airlines Plane near Longmont, Colorado, 11/1/55), SA William J. Magee advises that the photographs and negatives taken of the plane during reconstruction and the photograph of John Gilbert Graham should, at this time, be retained for an indefinite period as the material is referred to from time to time.

The .45 caliber cartridge cases and .45 caliber projectile being retained in the case captioned "Alvin Karpavicz, aka Alvin Karpis, Kidnaping," according to SA J. Allison Conley, should be retained until Karpis dies.

The .22 caliber Ace, Savage and Remington firearms along with the .30 caliber Winchester and .45 caliber Thompson Submachine gun in the case captioned "John Paul Chase, aka, Murder of Inspector Samuel P. Cowley and SA H. E. Hollis," are to be retained until John Paul Chase dies or the indictment against him is dropped.

Recommendation: In view of the foregoing information, the bulky exhibits should be maintained until disposition is possible in each circumstance.

SUBJECT: DESTRUCTION OF FILES AND RECORDS

Mr. Tavel

The Kansas City Office is maintaining two voluminous files which are utilizing eight file drawers of space. One is the MATNAP case, Bufile 7-1820, of which Kansas City has 65 volumes with correspondence over 20 years old. There is additional correspondence in this case which consists of 630 serials covering the period from July 1943 to the present. Kansas City has had no investigative activity in this matter since July 1958.

The other case consisting of 29 volumes of material over 20 years is the BREKID case, Bufile 7-576. There are 57 serials in this matter covering the period of July 1943 to July 1963. The Kansas City Office has had no investigative activity in this matter since July 1959.

It is requested this office be granted authority to dispose of the volumes of records in these two matters which are over 20 years old.

UACB 7/30/63 this will be done.

Reference is made to Kansas City letter 7-19-63.

Referenced letter requested authority to dispose of files in captioned cases in the Kansas City Office. Destruction authority is requested only on that material in these files which are over 20 years old. Kansas City advises there are 65 volumes with correspondence over 20 years old in the MATNAP case and 29 volumes of material over 20 years old in the BREKID case.

The Manual of Rules and Regulations, Part II, Section 3, Page 13 provides authority for field divisions to destroy field files after they become 20 years old. However, Bureau authority is required in cases of an important nature. The Files and Communications Division has no objection to the destruction of files described by the Kansas City Office. However, since these are cases of an important nature policy considerations are in order. Therefore, it is recommended that the views of the Investigative Division be obtained.

It should be noted that the files will be destroyed by Kansas City UACB 7-30-63.

RECOMMENDATIONS:

- (1) That this matter be referred to the Investigative Division.

See addendum GENERAL INVESTIGATIVE Division Page 1A.

authorized note for inspection 7/23/63 wmy

ORIGINAL FILED IN 66-3276

The Matnap case in which Seattle is office of origin remains unsolved and is still under investigation. Accordingly, the General Investigative Division recommends that Kansas City continue to retain all volumes of this file.

The Brekid case has been prosecuted; however, one of the primary ringleaders Alvin Karpis is still incarcerated in the McNeil Island Penitentiary on the life sentence he received. The General Investigative Division recommends that Kansas City continue to retain all volumes of this file.

The Inspection Division feels there is no point in having auxiliary offices such as Kansas City retain all volumes over 20 years old in the MATNAP case. Of course, the Office of Origin, Seattle, should retain all volumes and thereby be in a position to furnish any old background data to an auxiliary office if the remote possibility occurs that the auxiliary office needs same. If Kansas City has any material of evidentiary value or any statements or memoranda of significance which Seattle does not have, this should, of course, be retained. With respect to BREKID, the case has been prosecuted. If some problems arise, we have copies of all reports at the Seat of Government and the matter could be resolved by reference to these files. Of course, any signed statements, documentary evidence or memoranda not in possession of the Bureau should be retained.

We are having a tremendous problem in many of our field offices with respect to space, which is materially being affected by the accumulation of records. It is imperative that we destroy as many old records as logical and practical. To do otherwise is a waste of space and file cabinets, both of which are expensive. It is my suggestion that an SAC Letter be prepared permitting all offices to destroy their files in these cases except the Office of Origin. However, it is also felt that auxiliary offices should not destroy signed statements, important memoranda or evidentiary material not in possession of the Office of Origin.

Following his apprehension at New Orleans on 5-1-36 Karpis entered a guilty plea to the indictments returned in connection with the Hamm kidnaping. On 7-27-36 Karpis was sentenced to life imprisonment. On 7-5-61 U. S. Board of Parole denied his request for parole. This is to recommend that attached letter be sent to all field offices authorizing the destruction of photographs of suspects, maintained over twenty years, in captioned cases provided these photographs are of no further use in these investigations and provided that copies of these photographs are in the possession of the offices of origin and prosecution.

BACKGROUND

The Matnap case concerns the kidnaping of Charles Fletcher Mattson, aged ten, who was kidnaped 12-27-36 at Tacoma, Washington. Extensive investigation has been conducted and subject has not been identified. The Brekid case involves the kidnaping of Edward George Bremer on 1-17-34 at St. Paul, Minnesota. Alvin Karpis and others have been convicted for the Bremer kidnaping. Karpis was sentenced to life imprisonment and is still in prison.

SAC Letter 63-50 (B) dated 10-1-63 provides for the destruction of certain reports and letters in captioned cases by auxiliary offices provided copies are in the possession of the offices of origin and prosecution.

Since issuance of the above SAC letter, the Philadelphia Office has advised that it has a considerable accumulation of photographs of former suspects in these files which have been on hand for twenty years or more. Philadelphia suggests that other field divisions probably have the same large accumulation of photographs of suspects. Philadelphia recommends that in view of the age of the photographs and the fact that probably the individuals would not be identifiable at this time from these old photographs, authority be granted to dispose of them.

The General Investigative Division feels that continued retention of such photographs by auxiliary offices would serve no useful purpose; however, it is felt that the office of origin should continue to retain complete files.

Bulky Exhibits

A review of current bulky exhibits being maintained by the Laboratory Division has been completed.

With regard to the cases captioned "CANAB" (Crash of National Airlines DC-6B, Bolivia, North Carolina, 1960) and "Jack Gilbert Graham" (Crash of United Air Lines Airplane near Longmont, Colorado, 11/1/55), separate memoranda have been prepared in these cases setting forth the fact that bulky exhibits in connection with them will no longer be maintained in the Laboratory files.

In the case captioned "Alvin Karpavicz, aka Alvin Karpis, Kidnaping," SA J. Allison Conley has advised that the .45 caliber cartridge cases and the .45 caliber projectile should be retained until Karpis dies.

With respect to the case entitled "John Paul Chase, aka, Murder of Inspector Samuel T. Cowley and SA H. E. Hollis," SA Fletcher D. Thompson has advised that the bulky evidence being maintained in the Laboratory files should be retained until subject Chase dies or the pending indictment against him is dropped. It is noted that the evidence referred to consists of a .22 caliber Ace pistol, a .30 caliber Winchester rifle and a .45 caliber Thompson submachine gun. In addition, there is a .22 caliber Savage rifle and a .22 caliber Remington rifle.

Concerning the case entitled [REDACTED], aka, ITAR-G," SA Earl H. Williams has advised that the gambling paraphernalia consisting of 31 punchboards making up the bulky exhibit in this matter should be retained for the present, since this material is used periodically as a known standard against which questioned submissions are compared.

BACKGROUND:

As Father Joseph M. Clark, who is to see Mr. Hoover at 4 p.m., on 6-3-64, will undoubtedly mention John Paul Chase, the killer of former Agent Hollis and Inspector Cowley, the following is a brief resume of Chase's criminal life. Also included is a resume of Alvin Karpis, whose criminal career and subsequent parole endeavors are very similar to Chase and may be mentioned by Father Clark.

JOHN PAUL CHASE:

Chase was born on 12-26-01, in California, where he spent the greater part of his life. His criminal activity dealt principally with bootlegging activities in California during the 1920's. He was also engaged in a liquor-smuggling gang which included some of the more notorious California members of the underworld, with headquarters in San Francisco. In the early 1930's, Chase teamed up with Lester Joseph Gillis, better known as "Baby Face" Nelson, who had escaped from the Illinois State Penitentiary in February, 1932. Chase and Gillis were engaged in various types of criminal activities together during the 1932-34 period and were both suspected of several murders. They later teamed up with John Dillinger and other notorious hoodlums and participated in a number of bank robberies with these individuals. In November, 1934, Chase and Gillis while in a stolen car were involved in a gun fight with FBI Agents and Inspector Samuel P. Cowley and Agent H. E. Hollis were murdered. Gillis was also killed in the gun battle which took place in Barrington, Illinois. Chase was later taken into custody by local police at Shasta, California, where he was living under an assumed name.

REC-103

Chase subsequently received a life sentence on 3-28-35, in U. S. District Court, Chicago, for the murder of Inspector Cowley. He was also indicted for the murder of Agent Hollis but was never tried on this charge which was dismissed on 10-17-55. In connection with parole attempts on numerous occasions by Chase, the Bureau has never failed to protest the idea of giving leniency to Chase. He is presently incarcerated at the U. S. Penitentiary, Leavenworth, Kansas. In March, 1963,

CRIME RESEARCH

M. A. Jones to DeLoach memo
RE: FATHER JOSEPH M. CLARK

Pardon Attorney, U. S. Department of Justice, notified Chase that his application for executive clemency could not be favorably recommended to President Kennedy at that time.

ALVIN KARPAVICZ, AKA ALVIN KARPIS:

Karpis was born in Canada on 8-10-07, and was brought to this country by his parents when he was two years of age. He was one of the ring leaders of the notorious Karpis-Barker gang which terrorized the Midwest during the 1930's. On 1-17-34, Karpis and his gang kidnaped Edward G. Bremer at St. Paul, Minnesota, and released Bremer on 2-7-34, after receiving a $200,000 ransom. On 5-4-34, Karpis and others were indicted by a Federal Grand Jury at St. Paul in connection with Bremer's abduction.

Prior to the Bremer kidnaping, William A. Hamm, Jr., of the Hamm Brewing Company, was kidnaped at St. Paul on 6-15-33. Hamm was released after a ransom of $100,000 was paid. It was determined that Karpis was one of the individuals responsible for this kidnaping.

Karpis was apprehended by the FBI at New Orleans, Louisiana, on 5-1-36. On 7-14-36, he entered a plea of guilty to the indictments returned in connection with the Hamm kidnaping and was sentenced to life imprisonment on 7-27-36. On approximately 1-30-62, Karpis was transferred from Alcatraz to the U. S. Penitentiary, McNeil Island, Washington, where he is currently incarcerated.

Karpis has been eligible for parole since 7-26-51, but waived a parole hearing by U. S. Board of Parole until 7-5-61, when his parole was denied.

In 1962, it was determined that Karpis was attempting to establish a parole plan through correspondence with the director, Catholic Rehabilitations Service of the Federation of Catholic Charities, Montreal, Canada. The director of this organization has indicated his interest in assisting Karpis if he is paroled and deported to Canada, the country where he was born. The Director has advised the Attorney General and the Bureau of Prisons that in view of the notorious background of Karpis, it is believed he is not entitled to any consideration regarding parole.

On 7/13/64, [REDACTED]

U. S.

Board of Parole, telephonically advised the Bureau that the annual report on Karpis had been reviewed by the Board and parole was again denied. According to [REDACTED] no further consideration will be given to parole for Karpis until July 1965.

Karpis, currently incarcerated at McNeil Island Federal Penitentiary, was one of the subjects responsible for the 1933 kidnaping of William A. Hamm, Jr., and the 1934 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer. Following his apprehension at New Orleans, on 5/1/36, Karpis entered a guilty plea to the indictments returned in connection with the Hamm kidnaping. On 7/27/36, he was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Each July, the U. S. Board of Parole reviews the annual report on Karpis which is for the purpose of determining whether Karpis should be paroled. In the past, we have advised the Attorney General of the ruthless crimes perpetrated by Karpis and set forth our position that he is not entitled to any consideration.

ACTION:

This matter concerning Karpis is being followed with the U. S. Board of Parole and any change relating to Karpis will be promptly brought to our attention.

Attached is a one dollar bill that has been filed as an enclosure in the Bremer kidnaping case for the past 20 years (7-576-562). This money was transmitted to the Bureau by a copy of a letter from SAC Werner Hanni, St. Paul Office to the SAC, Kansas City Office dated 2-17-34. This bill was taken in by the First National Bank of Owatonna and turned over to the St. Paul Office by the County Attorney, Owatonna, Minnesota. It was thought the bill might have some significance to the Bremer kidnaping case because it contained writing in pen and ink stating, "Mr. Bremer was held in Kansas City 10 men in gang leaders won't split Fair." However, it does not appear that this bill is of any current value to this case and it is therefore recommended that, with the approval of the General Investigative Division, the Administrative Division place this one dollar bill in the Bureau's Miscellaneous Fund.

RECOMMENDATION:

That, upon approval by the Kidnaping Desk of the General Investigative Division, the Administrative Division place the attached one dollar bill in the Bureau's Miscellaneous Fund.

U. S. Board of Parole, advised our Washington Field Office that the annual report on Karpis had been reviewed by the Board, and parole was again denied.

Karpis, currently incarcerated at McNeil Island Federal Penitentiary, was one of the subjects responsible for the 1933 kidnaping of William A. Hamm, Jr., and the 1934 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer. Following his apprehension at New Orleans on 5/1/36, Karpis entered a guilty plea to the indictments returned in connection with the Hamm kidnaping. On 7/27/36 he was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Each year the U. S. Board of Parole reviews the annual report on Karpis, which is for the purpose of determining whether Karpis should be paroled. In the past, we have advised the Attorney General of the ruthless crimes perpetrated by Karpis and set forth our position that he is not entitled to any consideration.

ACTION:

This matter concerning Karpis is being followed with the U. S. Board of Parole, and any change relating to Karpis will be promptly brought to our attention.

Hansell's letter to us refers to a magazine article stating $100,000 of the Bremer ransom is buried in Minnesota. It does not appear we should advise him of the exact amount of money unrecovered.

Dear Sir:

Berkid

In a recent magazine there is a story of $100,000 in 5 and 10 dollars bills buried in Minnesota from the Bremmer Kidnapping case of 1934.

A friend and I plan to look for it this summer. I looked it up in the New York times year file and there is only one mention of a $1000 bill turing up in Rochester, N Y. in 1934. As this was marked money do you have any information as to how much was recovered. If this amount is still missing then there maybe something to the story. The writer claims $100,000 was sent to cuba and exchanged. The total ransom was $200,000.⁰⁰ I would appreciate any information you can furnish as it will save us a lot of useless looking if the story is a hoax.

Thanking You,

625 Madison Avenue, New York, New York. The story appearing in this magazine as mentioned by HANSELL is entitled, "Those Unearthed Millions In Gangster Gold". The author of this story is shown to be BRAD STEIGER and the story appears on Pages 20, 21, 78 through 81. This story relates to unrecovered millions of dollars alleged to have been buried by the gangsters of the early 30's.

A portion of this story as it appears on page 80 relates to captioned case and shows that after the kidnaping of EDWARD GEORGE BRENNER (correct spelling BREMER) at St. Paul, Minnesota, according to those who rode with "MA" BARKER from Rochester, Minnesota, "MA" BARKER and her son FRED buried half of the original $200,000 ransom money in a strongbox wrapped in heavy tarpaulin. This article goes on to state that according to one of the BARKER brothers, who survived the closing of the FBI net, it was buried halfway between Rochester and Chatfield, Minnesota. FRED BARKER allegedly complained about the bitter cold and later laughed that they had uprooted a fence post when burying the loot. The remaining half of the loot, according to this story, was exchanged in Havana, Cuba for Cuban gold which was eventually split up by the gang.

According to Interesting Case Number 7-576, which relates to the kidnaping of EDWARD GEORGE BREMER, St. Paul, Minnesota, on 1/17/34, the ransom money was originally buried at Wilmington, Illinois and on 3/23/34, was moved to the apartment of FRED BARKER in Chicago, Illinois. Thereafter the ransom money was taken to the apartment of WILLIAM WEAVER at Aurora, Illinois and substantial amounts routed through Dr. JOSEPH P. MORAN to the money-changers in Chicago, Illinois. This interesting case write-up shows that a substantial sum of the money was later exchanged in Cuba.

The source from which the author of the above-mentioned story obtained his information is not known and it appears to be without basis. There is nothing in the Minneapolis files to indicate that any information was ever received regarding any of the ransom money in captioned case being buried any place in Minnesota.

The "Men" magazine appears of the "smut variety", dealing in sensationalism, sex exposes, and contains photos of seminudes.

MP 7-30

It is the recommendation of the Minneapolis Office that no further action be taken in regard to this matter and no lead is being set out to locate and interview the author of the afore-mentioned story in the February 1966 issue of "Men".

A Xerox copy of this article is being maintained in the Minneapolis file on captioned case.

Buried in the Midwest

The most vicious, massacre-mad killers America has ever known, they stole millions of dollars that, to this day, have never been recovered. Here is the astonishing lowdown on the greatest untapped lode since the rape of the Spanish Main, the bloodstained, long-hidden cash hoards Dillinger, Baby-Face Nelson and a dozen other "Wild Thirties" gangsters never lived to spend—and they're just lying around for any smart treasure hunter to find.

By BRAD STEIGER

NOTORIOUS GANGSTERS (above, rt.) pulled off amazing string of bank robberies during Thirties, stealing huge sums of money. Police divers (above, left) are plumbing depths of Indiana river after officials received tip that cache of money stolen 30 years earlier was sunk by fleeing gangsters

EMIL Wanetka smiled at the sound of the car pulling up in front of his isolated roadhouse eight miles southeast of Mercer, Wisconsin. Business had been slow at the Little Bohemia, he sighed to himself, taking another swipe at the bar with the rag. Maybe things would pick up. Maybe this would be a car load of free-spending, high-tipping tourists.

The door to his tavern swung open and three men walked boldly toward the bar. Wanetka was about to hail them with a "What'll it be, Gents" when they stopped in the middle of the room. There, as if seeking hidden enemies, they looked around (Continued on page 78) toward all the corners, then walked over to the windows as if to gauge the approaches of the road to the little tavern.

One of them sat down in a chair against a wall and lifted a suitcase to his lap. Wanetka watched with a curiosity that turned to horror as the surly man opened the case and assembled miscellaneous metal pieces into a vicious Thompson sub-machine gun.

Not a word had been spoken. The two men, who still stood at the windows, motioned to somebody outside, then turned toward Wanetka. A small, slight, almost effeminate man entered the tavern and approached the barman. Wanetka knew he had seen that face somewhere before, but he could not place it.

"The boys say your place is all right," the man said softly. "My friends and I are going to stay here a while."

Fear seared the mind of the bartender at the same instant that recognition of his guests came to him from a hundred newspaper photos and wanted posters. This was a prize collection of the most notorious gangsters who ever gunned down bank tellers, slaughtered law officers and hoodlum rivals, or carved up the face of a stoolie.

THE slight man who had informed him that they were going to "stay a while" was John Dillinger. His unsmiling playmates were Van Meter, Tommy Carroll, Pat Reilly and Baby Face Nelson. Entering the roadhouse with a flourish of beaded bags, bare knees and bee-stung lips were their playgirls Helen Gillis, Marie Comforti and Jean Delaney.

Wanetka glanced at the calendar above the bar mirror: April 20, 1934. It could easily be his last day on earth. He cleared his throat, forced a smile: "What'll you have, folks?"

This was the beginning of a three-day ordeal for Emil Wanetka. For 72 hours, the Dillinger gang drank up the tavern-owner's booze, played his juke box with coins pilfered from his till and made the Little Bohemia swing, swing, swing.

Things were hot for the mob. They had left Chicago with G-men on their tails, and they knew that Hoover's helpers would not be far behind. Dillinger was stalling for time—time for Patricia Charrington to find a new hideout on the West-side of Chicago. Gangland courier as well as mob moll for Dillinger, Patricia had just taken a million dollars worth of bonds and securities that the soft-voiced hood had heisted to Minneapolis to be converted by a fence into $200,000 in ready cash. Dillinger had packed the loot in the suitcase and sent his errand girl back to Chicago to find a new ice box for the gang to cool off in.

Although Dillinger never left the suitcase out of his sight, neither it nor the $200,000 would ever leave the Wisconsin woods. Persistent Federal agents, receiving word that the Dillinger mob was hiding out in the little tavern, had come by plane to Mercer. Eager to close the net on the vicious gang, the G-men headed for the Little Bohemia at once, hoping to snare the mob after a chase that had lasted for months.

The agents were quick to spot the mounted guard on the roof of the small tavern. Not for one minute underestimating Dillinger's prowess with a sub-machine gun, the G-men decided to wait until dark before they moved in.

Then three men walked out of the Little Bohemia and got into a car. Unknown to the agents, these men were not in any way affiliated with the Dillinger mob, but were three CCC workers, John Hoffman, Eugene Boissoneau and John Morris.

Hoffman drove the car onto the highway and headed toward the G-men who were forming a kind of traffic block just down the road from the tavern. One of the agents told Hoffman to stop, but because he did not hear or did not understand, he kept on going. The agents, thinking that the men were part of Dillinger's mob hell-bent on escape, fired on the car, fatally wounding Boissoneau. Morris was seriously injured, and Hoffman, untouched by the bullets, ran as fast as he could for the tall timber.

The sudden burst of gunfire from the woods tipped the hoods inside the Little Bohemia as completely as if the agents had called them on the telephone and told them to expect company for lunch.

One by one, Dillinger and his thugs slipped out of a window in the back of the tavern and ran for the surrounding woods. None of them ran in the same direction, each took a separate route through the time to another roadhouse down the highway from the Little Bohemia. The hoods had noticed that their boss had grabbed the suitcase full of bills when he dove out the window. When they rendezvoused at the new roadhouse, he no longer carried the valuable valise.

The gang left the roadhouse for the home of Robert Johnson where they stole a car and roared down the road for the Windy City. The persistent Federal agents, not knowing that the men they sought had slipped away, had continued to bombard the tavern with everything they had, from machineguns to tear gas. When they finally forced the door, all they found was Emil Wanetka and the three pleasure girls cowering behind the bar.

BACK in Chicago, Dillinger located Patricia Charrington and proclaimed his satisfaction with the new hideout she had chosen. Unable to suppress an effeminate giggle, he told his moll how he had once again made monkeys out of the Feds. Then, turning deadly serious, he told her where he had hidden the $200,000.

"I lit out of that tavern like a bat out of hell. I ran 500 yards straight north of the joint. There, in the center of a semi-circle formed by three trees, I dug a hole in the ground and pushed the suitcase into it. I threw dirt and leaves on top of that, you know, so it won't look like nobody has been digging there."

"Baby, just as soon as the heat's off, you and me are gonna take another little trip to Wisconsin. Then we are really going to take a dandy vacation!"

Dillinger and Patricia Charrington never got to take that "dandy vacation."

A short time later, the Federal agents closed in on the killer outside the Biograph Theater in Chicago and shot him down as he tried to elude capture.

After a term in prison, Pat Charrington never again expressed interest in reclaiming the $200,000 that Dillinger had interred in Wisconsin soil. "Hell," she shrugged once. "That was Johnny's money."

She did, however, give explicit instructions for finding the loot to a lawyer friend; but it is highly doubtful that the instructions are completely accurate.

John Dillinger scrambled out of that window in the dark with guns blazing in front of the tavern and screaming pumping through his veins. But whether he ran 500 yards, as he said he did, a 100 feet, or a mile is impossible to say. An excited man does not count the feet flying beneath him when he fears for bullets whizzing past his ears. It is also unlikely that he was able to run "straight north," as he told his moll. It would be very difficult to run for 500 yards in a straight line in any direction in the Wisconsin woods. The fact that Dillinger made his dash after dark also decreases the possibility that he ran "500 yards straight north."

But one fact in John Dillinger's treasure story does remain unassailable. And that, of course, is the very tempting truth that somewhere in the woods eight miles southwest of Mercer, Wisconsin lies $200,000 just a few inches below the surface—as yet, unearthed.

It may come as some surprise to many of the gold-hunters who seek out lost mines in Arizona and sunken galleons off the Florida keys, but Midwestern soil offers fertile ground for the treasure-seeker as well as the corn-grower. During the tempestuous Twenties, Chicago ganglords were busy harvesting bundles of ill-gotten coin. And most of them were realistic enough to realize that they couldn't take it with them. And all of them swore that the Feds would never get it! So, like Captain Kidd, Blackbeard and generations of pirates and plunderers before them, the bootleg buccaneers buried millions of dollars of gangster gold in the states of Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Indiana.

Before the underworld of Chicago had ever heard of Al Capone, a man called Big Jim Colosimo ruled the gangland roost. The big, burly man, who made most of his money off the sweat of the backs of his pleasure girls, was the first of the barons on the Chicago scene.

Big Jim's most notable idiosyncrasy was his penchant for diamonds. He bought them from jewelry stores, private dealers and often relieved jewel thieves of their take. He wore loud, flashy suits and greatly implemented his aura of splendor by wearing a diamond ring on each finger. The studs on his shirt front were all of diamonds, and he wore a huge diamond encrusted horseshoe on his suspenders. In addition to being almost completely attired with his favorite gem, the big hoodlum carried pocketfuls of diamonds wherever he went. His cronies grew accustomed to seeing Colosimo's eager fingers reach for a pocket of diamonds whenever he was under stress. He was like a baby with a pacifier as he sifted his fingers through dozens of the sparkly gems.

WHEN he was killed by a gangland rival, the total value of his estate came to a mere $40,000. According to underworld experts, this was about one-twentieth of what he was worth. What happened to Big Jim's gems? Some hoods claimed he liquidated the diamonds and spent them on a woman. But the woman in question, Dale Winter, emphatically denied it. Big Jim was, she claimed, a hard man with a dollar. Those who knew him best said that Colosimo had hidden the diamonds—about $600,000 worth—in downstate Illinois. This cache has never been found.

Big Jim had entered into a loveless marriage of convenience around the turn of the century, but it wasn't until late winter of 1920 that he met a girl who could really turn him on. Dale Winter, an actress and singer, sent her diamond-bedecked lover scurrying to his lawyers to arrange a divorce with his wife. She settled for a flat $50,000 and got it without protest from Colosimo. Three weeks after the divorce,

Big Jim was married to Dale Winter at Crown Point, Indiana.

During the time that the big boss had become infatuated with Dale Winter, he had turned over much of his organization's administrative work to his first assistant, Johnny Torrio. Torrio had come up through the ranks from Colosimo's bodyguard to his right-hand man. He'd watched Colosimo's operation and knew that, given an opportunity, he could take over. He was very happy to accept the reins of the organization while his boss ran around panting after the young singer.

A week after Colosimo returned from his honeymoon, he left the breakfast table and his new wife for the last time. He had kissed his bride resoundingly, whispered his plans for the evening into a curler-covered ear, then left her with a wink and an expansive grin.

Since he had returned from his honeymoon, his diamond accouterments had disappeared from his suits. The suits themselves had taken on a more tasteful air, probably from the influence of his new wife who did not approve of ostentation in personal dress.

Colosimo traveled by car through Chicago to a restaurant that he owned. There he met and conversed with his secretary, Frank Camilla. After a short conference, Big Jim left the office and started for the front door. He never made it. Camilla heard two shots and ran to the front of the restaurant where he found Big Jim Colosimo sprawled on the floor with two slugs in his back. Torrio had accomplished his power play.

WHEN the auditing of Colosimo's estate was completed, Torrio, as principal heir, was decidedly unhappy with the relatively small amount of money to be divided with the grieving widow. What, he snarled at his henchmen, had happened to all the diamonds?

Everyone had known that diamonds had been an obsession with the big man. Evidently his young wife must have killed that obsession or at least subdued it with another. His lawyers wrote the diamonds off as a permanent loss. They ventured that Colosimo, having been freed of his lust for power and ostentatious wealth, had buried the precious gems as a kind of his independence. According to some sources, Big Jim told his most intimate gangland cronies that he had buried them in the country outside of Crown Point. He said that they would always be there if he needed them, but as long as he had Dale,

"There's a bad tie-up on the eastside freeway. Southbound motorists are advised to take alternate route 10."

he had no use for them.

Somewhere outside of Crown Point, Indiana, just a few feet under the ground, lies over $800,000 in diamonds. The spot to plant the spade, however, was known to only one man—and that knowledge was lost forever when two gangland slugs slammed the life out of him in his own Chicago cafe.

A word of caution before treasure hunters begin descending on Crown Point. In 1924, a group of noisy tourists began spading up the terrain, proclaiming loudly that they were after the diamonds. Unfortunately, some of Johnny Torrio's mobsters were also in the vicinity doing just exactly the same thing. Torrio had strong feelings about the fact that he, as Colosimo's "heir," was entitled to all the diamonds. Three of the startled tourists were wounded, one seriously, by the treasure-hunting thugs. Even today a favorite summer diversion for certain Chicago hoodlums consists of an elaborate expedition to "hunt for Big Jim's gems." Although the forays usually degenerate into drinking parties and hell-raising brawls, it would not be a good idea to run afoul of the syndicate's safari.

The Barker-Karpis gang had the meanest reputation in the underworld of the Thirties. "Ma" Barker and her four sons, coupled with Alvin Karpis and his shotgun sadists, made a lethal and grotesquely effective band of plunderers. These bandits loved banks, blood and butchery. Their repertoire included mail robberies and prison breaks, bank hold-ups and kidnappings.

The gang followed their matriarch with loaded machine guns, using St. Paul, then Chicago, then Kansas City alternately as headquarters. Wherever they went, murder and mayhem were certain to follow. Kidnapped and held William A. Hamm, Jr. for a hundred-thousand dollar ransom. Hamm, one of the owners of the famous Hamm's brewing company was lucky to return alive after the money had been transferred to the gang's hands.

"Ma" decided that kidnapping was both lucrative and easy, and quickly herded her brood into another body snatch. It was time, she had decided, to put away some loot for her old age.

With gangster's logic, "Ma" said that their next victim would be Edward George Brenner, president of the Commercial State Bank in St. Paul, Minnesota. A gun at the head of the president, she reasoned, and all the bank vaults would swing open at her command.

THE first attempt to snare Brenner ended in failure for the mob and in bloodshed for two innocent men. As the gang had pulled up to its final rendezvous before closing in on the bank president, a car slowed to a halt behind them.

"Cops!" someone had yelled as he spotted two uniformed men inside the car.

As the Barker car roared away from the curb, machineguns chattered and two pilots from Northwestern Airways slumped forward badly wounded. In their commercial uniforms, they had been mistaken by the gang as "cops."

Never one to believe in bad omens, the determined "Ma" managed to snatch Brenner from his car just after he had dropped his daughter off at her school. The ransom was set at $200,000. Long and intricate negotiations between the anguished family and the Barker-Karpis mob took almost a month. The FBI was helpless while the malicious held Brenner in its hideout. At last payment was made in five and ten dollar bills, and the gang pushed Brenner out of a car on a side road north of Rochester, Minnesota.

Now that "Ma" had obtained the ransom from the Brenner family, she was faced with the problem of exchanging it for bills whose serial numbers had not been recorded by the G-men. It is known that $100,000 of the take from the Brenner kidnapping was sent to Chicago and relayed by intricate route to Havana, Cuba where it was exchanged for gold.

What happened to the other $100,000? According to those who rode south in the car with "Ma" from Rochester, Minnesota, the murderous matriarch stopped the car and, with the help of her son, Fred, carefully buried the money in a strongbox wrapped in heavy tarpaulin.

The tough old gal was shrewd enough to realize that getting all of the ransom money exchanged by the Havana route would have been impossible. Furthermore, it would be easier to exchange the rest of the take after the heat was off the case.

After "Ma" and Fred buried half of the loot, the gang brought the remaining $100,000 to Chicago to begin negotiations for Cuban gold. Upon its arrival, the gang eagerly divided the money and split in several directions to wait out the Federal heat-wave in comfort.

Alert G-men caught up with Karpis and company in Kansas. Following a slim lead, other agents encircled the Florida cottage where "Ma" and Fred Barker had holed up. After a vicious fight to the death, agents burst into the cottage to discover a veritable arsenal, and the corpses of Fred and the machine-gunning mother of the Barker clan.

No farmer's plow has yet unearthed the remaining $100,000 from the Brenner kidnapping that "Ma" Barker carefully buried in the canvas-covered cashbox. According to one of the Barker brothers who survived the closing of the FBI net, it was buried about halfway between Rochester, Minnesota and the little town of Chatfield. Fred Barker is said to have complained about the cold and later laughed that they had uprooted a fencepost when burying the loot.

There are over twenty miles of fenceposts between Rochester and Chatfield, but under one of them is $100,000 in five and ten dollar bills.

Over 800 gangland slayings occurred in Chicago between 1923 and 1927. When the smoke cleared at a peace conference in Atlantic City, New Jersey in 1927, Alphonse Capone was proclaimed King of the Windy City.

One of Capone's early rivals had been the Genna gang. In 1925, Big Al killed three of the brothers; and the other three, realizing that they were marked men, ran for their native Sicily so fast that one of them left his wife behind to sell over $50,000 worth of furniture. The story of the Gennas and their flight is also the story of several more packets of unfound bills.

The Genna brothers had made their money by employing half the population of the Sicilian ghetto in cooking corn sugar into alcohol. To the average immigrant arriving in Chicago, fifteen dollars a week was a fortune—and that was what they got for cooking Genna brew. All Papa had to do was sit at home and keep the fire going and watch as the valuable liquid boiled out of the still. At the peak of their bootleg career, the Genna gang was clearing about $10,000 a week—no small sum, even when divided six ways.

When they got too ambitious and began moving into Capone's territory, Al showed them in no uncertain terms just whom they were messing with. Angelo Genna had his head blown off with sawed-off shotguns. Mike was killed in a running gun battle with police while riding in a Capone car that would have taken him to his death anyway. Antonio was chopped down by Capone torpedoes as he left a restaurant. Knowing that their names could not be far down on the hit-list, the remaining Genna brothers fled across the Atlantic.

In Italy, Jim Genna, penniless, but alive, often boasted of the cache that he had buried over the stateline in Indiana. No one can be certain how much Jim had a chance to salt away—sometimes he talked of $50,000, sometimes of $150,000. He would, he told his wide-eyed listeners, return one day to America and once again be a big shot. But he never did. The memory of the brutal efficiency of Capone torpedoes haunted his dreams.

His cache is said to be located between the crossing of Highways six and 30 and the little town of Bremen, Indiana. Ac-

According to his bodyguard, Genna went out Highway six on a side road for about a mile or a mile and a half, then made him sit in the car while he took shovel and cashbox and disappeared into the darkness. All he would tell the thug was that he "buried it in a pasture beside a rock pile."

Another bundle of lost bills is associated closely with the Genna gang. With the methodic assassination of three of the brothers and the rapid disintegration of the mob, Sam Samoots Amatuna saw his chance to make a mint. With the death of Angelo Genna, the seat of the powerful Unione Sicillione was left vacant. Capone wanted full control of the Unione, but Amatuna, acting just one jump ahead of Big Al, descended on the office of the Unione Sicillione with the lesser henchmen of the Genna gang and had himself declared president.

Amatuna was a realist. He was fully aware of Capone's power and that the czar of crime would soon come to bargain with him. Amatuna would be reasonable. He would step down from the presidency of the Unione Sicillione—preferably for a price—in favor of Capone. All he wanted was just a little more time to earn a few more bucks so that he might spend the rest of his life in ease. If Capone should prove unreasonable, Amatuna had his getaway completely planned, right down to the escape routes; and he had hidden $50,000 on a road heading toward northern Wisconsin and $20,000 on a highway heading southwest from Chicago. His getaway was to be by car. No matter which route he took, he could pick up a nest egg along the way.

ACCORDING to Amatuna's chauffeur, the mobster buried one bundle along Highway 12, just north of Pell Lake, Wisconsin. Amatuna left his car shortly after one in the morning and walked at a 90-degree angle off the highway until he came to a clump of trees. He entered the little grove and disappeared. About a half an hour later, he returned minus his package. Later the same week, Amatuna and his chauffeur again made a trip away from Chicago, moving south. On this occasion, the observant chauffeur remembered, Amatuna had buried his pin-money just south of Braidwood, Illinois along Route 66.

The two nest eggs are still waiting for someone to hatch them. Before Amatuna could dig them up, he was buried deeper than his money. On November 13, 1925, Sam Samoots Amatuna was murdered as he sat in a barber chair getting a shave and a manicure. His right-hand henchman was killed as he returned from Amatuna's funeral. Another Amatuna man was killed two weeks later in a drugstore.

How many more gangsters of the Twenties and Thirties prepared for a future that never came? With so much money flying around Chicago, it is a good bet that there were quite a few. The dream of every gangland figure was to get out of the jungle of organized crime and enjoy life with the pressure off. Although many mobsters prepared for this dream, very few of them realized it.

How many treasure stores are left unclaimed along the escape routes of hoodlums who ended up on the wrong end of a sub-Thompson? It is impossible to determine just how many unearthed mobster millions lie under just a few inches of Midwest topsoil, but any day now determined diggers for gangster gold will uncover a cache of bills that will transform some thug's dream into their own reality. With a little luck, it could be you. . . .

Alvin Karpis, the legendary Public Enemy No. 1, whose long criminal career ended in 1936 when FBI agents captured him in a New Orleans apartment, will make another attempt next month to win his freedom from a federal penitentiary.

Karpis, now 57, is serving a life sentence at the McNeil Island Federal Penitentiary near Tacoma, Wash., for the $100,000 extortion-kidnaping in 1933 of William Hamm Jr. of St. Paul, Minn., a brewing company heir.

FBI agents branded him as their "most wanted" suspect after he teamed up with Kate "Ma" Barker to lead one of the underworld's most notorious gangs.

The FBI had accused the gang of the murders of at least 10 persons, the wounding of four others and the theft of more than $1 million during a crime spree throughout the Midwest between 1931 and 1936.

J. EDGAR HOOVER, the veteran FBI director, personally came to New Orleans in May, 1936, and led agents in the raid on an apartment at 3343 Canal, where Karpis and a red-headed girl were living quietly as Mr. and Mrs. Edward O'Hara.

Karpis, although armed, surrendered without a fight as did Fred Hunter, who was facing an indictment along with the gang leader for an Ohio mail train robbery the year before.

Hoover bound the notorious Karpis hand and foot. One agent first used his tie to bind the fugitive, and the whisked him away in a specially chartered plane which had been waiting at the old Shushan Airport for two days. Karpis was flown directly to St. Paul to face trial in the Hamm kidnapping.

THE FUGITIVE gang leader was also under indictment at the time for the 1934 kidnapping of another St. Paul resident, banker Edward G. Bremer, who was released after payment of a $200,000 ransom.

Police in a half dozen states were trying to gain jurisdiction of Karpis immediately after his arrest. Ohio wanted him for the mail train robbery, Missouri sought him for the murder of a sheriff and other states asked to try him on a variety of charges ranging from murder to bank robbery.

After his conviction, Karpis spent 25 years in Alcatraz before being transferred to McNeil in April, 1962.

Today Karpis is a clerk-typist helping keep records of the work-release program at McNeil.

WHEN THE FEDERAL Parole Board makes its annual visit to McNeil in August, Karpis' case will come up, as it has each year since his initial rejection for parole in 1951. Warden R. W. May says he is being sponsored for parole by a resident of Montreal, Canada, where Karpis was born. Alvin Karpavicz 57 years ago.

Karpis now lives at Summit House, a former guards residence which houses about 30 prisoners. Many of the men participate in the work-release program, working on the mainland by day and returning by night, but Karpis has not left the island since he arrived.

Like other residents of Summit House, he occasionally has the duty of showing around prison visitors.

"WE DECORATE our own rooms," he told one such group. "It's a chance for a bit of individualism. You need that, you know."

"We always knock before walking into a room. A man has to have some privacy."

Looking forward to his possible release, prison authorities are letting Karpis relearn how to drive a car. A short while ago he got his first lesson at something new.

It was an automatic transmission. They hadn't been invented when the iron doors first closed on Alvin Karpis.

KIDNAPPING

On February 27, 1967, [redacted] United States Penitentiary, McNeil Island, Washington, advised SA ELGIN E. OLROGG on a discreet basis that subject, ALVIN KARPIS, is in contact with an attorney by the name of ELLSWORTH CONNELLY, 9615 Bridgeport Way SW, Tacoma, Washington; and KARPIS has indicated he is preparing a motion for a new trial.

[redacted] stated he is unaware of the basis for a new trial and details of this type would not necessarily come to the attention of prison officials since KARPIS, as well as any other inmate, is allowed to deal directly with his attorney. Further, he stated any legal papers would be submitted directly to the court without processing through prison channels. [redacted] advised that he would be alert for any information of interest to the Bureau in this matter and will promptly furnish same to SA OLROGG.

On February 27, 1967, [redacted] McNeil Penitentiary, advised he has heard through [redacted] that KARPIS intends to file a motion for a new trial; however, he has no knowledge of the details and there is nothing in KARPIS' legal file pertaining to this matter. [redacted] stated it is not required and it is very unlikely KARPIS would furnish a copy of such a motion to prison officials at McNeil.

NOTE:

By letter 10/20/67, James E. Carty, Attorney in Woodland, Washington, advised he represents Alvin Karpavicz, also known as Alvin Karpis currently confined to life imprisonment for kidnaping. Carty desires the names of FBI Agents who participated in the capture of Karpis in New Orleans, Louisiana, the names of the FBI Agents who interrogated Karpis in St. Paul, Minnesota, and the present addresses of any of these Agents who are living.

Karpis was one of the ring leaders of the notorious Karpis-Barker gang which terrorized the Midwest during the 1930s. Karpis was identified as being involved in four bank robberies. His gang kidnaped Edward G. Bremer, a St. Paul, Minnesota, bank president, and collected $200,000 ransom for his return and Karpis was convicted for the kidnaping of William A. Hamm, Jr., for whom a $100,000 ransom was paid. He received a life sentence in July, 1936, and through the years has attempted to gain his freedom by parole and other means.

It would appear that Attorney Carty may be laying the ground work for a possible appeal for Karpis. We are under no obligation at this time to cooperate with him in any way.

On 11/1/67, EVERETT LEGNON, Deputy Clerk, U. S. District Court for the Eastern District of Louisiana, New Orleans, furnished copies of the enclosed letters which were received from JAMES E. CARTY regarding ALVIN KARPAVICZ (ALVIN KARPIS). Mr. LEGNON advised a search of the Court's records failed to locate a file or docket number for this individual and inasmuch as KARPIS was convicted for kidnaping, LEGNON requested aid from the New Orleans FBI Office in an attempt to locate a docket number. LEGNON stated he had contacted the U. S. Re Bureau airtel to Seattle dated 11/6/67.

For information of Minneapolis and Washington Field Office, Attorney JAMES E. CARTY, Woodland, Washington, has requested information concerning subject's appearance before the United States Commissioner after his arrest in New Orleans in 1936, and other information concerning the handling of subject. It is apparent CARTY is planning some type of appeal in behalf of subject. The Bureau has instructed that this matter be closely followed and that the Bureau be advised at the earliest possible opportunity of the nature of the appeal.

On November 13, 1967, and December 1, 1967, [redacted] U. S. Penitentiary, McNeil Island, Washington, confidentially advised he is aware that subject is in correspondence with Attorney CARTY concerning a possible appeal, however, the nature of such an appeal is unknown. [redacted] stated to his knowledge no appeal has been filed by subject to date, however, he pointed out that such an appeal could be filed directly with the U. S. District Court where the subject was convicted without knowledge of prison officials at McNeil. It is noted that subject was convicted in the U. S. District Court, St. Paul, Minnesota.

[redacted] further stated subject last appeared before the Federal Parole Board in August 1966, and in June 1967, an annual progress review was forwarded to the U. S. Board of Parole. [redacted] stated no word has been received back as to a decision reached by the Parole Board.

On December 19, 1967, BERNADINE BROWN, Criminal Docket Clerk, United States District Court, St. Paul, Minnesota, advised Special Agent WESLEY A. ANDERSON that the last court entry in their files with respect to KARPAVICZ was on July 22, 1949, and a current appeal has not been filed to date. She recalled that during the summer of 1967 KARPAVICZ wrote to the United States District Court clerk in St. Paul requesting numerous official papers from his file. The official file is not maintained in St. Paul, but has been sent to the Federal Records Center at Kansas City, Missouri. The file was recalled from the Records Center and copies of papers requested by KARPAVICZ on several occasions during the summer of 1967 were sent to him. The file was returned to the Federal Records Center at Kansas City and nothing is pending in St. Paul now.

Miss BROWN was requested to notify the FBI immediately in the event an appeal is filed for KARPAVICZ. She stated that she would place a notation in the file with respect to this request.

The matter will be followed with Miss BROWN.

However, on August 13, 1968, he received a request from the U. S. Board of Parole, Washington D. C., to obtain confirmation in writing from the Immigration Service that KARPIS is deportable to Canada and to obtain and furnish travel documents. [REDACTED] stated this was handled by him through the Seattle office of the Immigration Service since KARPIS is a Canadian citizen. The travel documents specify that when released, KARPIS would be deported to Montreal.

[REDACTED] stated he sent these papers to Mr. DUNBAR, Chairman, U. S. Board of Parole, Washington D. C.

NOTE:

By memo 8/30/68, Assistant Attorney General Vinson requested whether our files showed the length of time Alvin Karpis was interviewed after his arrest, whether or not Karpis was able to consult with an attorney alone and whether the names of the interviewing Agents may be disclosed at this time. Karpis was one of the ring leaders of the notorious Karpis - Barker Gang which terrorized the Midwest during the 1930s. Karpis received a life sentence in July, 1936, for the William J. Hamm kidnaping. This information has been requested by Attorney James E. Carty, a "bleeding heart" who believes Karpis appears rehabilitated and is assisting Karpis without compensation in an attempt to gain his freedom. Carty wishes to interview the Agents involved in an attempt to support an allegation that Karpis was denied the right to counsel and was coerced into furnishing a plea. Karpis was arrested in New Orleans, Louisiana, on 5/1/36, and was interviewed after his transportation to St. Paul, Minnesota. Bureau files have been checked; however, they do not contain the data requested by the Department. The Minneapolis Office, therefore, has been instructed to check their files to determine if information desired by the Department is available.

Karpis was arrested in New Orleans, Louisiana, on 5-1-36 and was interviewed after his transportation to St. Paul, Minnesota. Our Minneapolis Office has made a check of the Alvin Karpis file and has advised that the information requested by the Department is not contained in the file. He was transported to St. Paul, Minnesota, by airplane and was interviewed at St. Paul by Special Agents S. K. McKee, G. A. Paulson and R. C. Suran between 5-2-36 and 5-6-36. On August 5, 1968, I received a letter from Mr. James E. Carty, attorney for Alvin Karpavicz. This communication is the latest in a series which began last fall. After Mr. Carty's letter of October 25, 1967, to the Bureau, he contacted the Attorney General in reference to securing the names and addresses of the FBI agents involved in the Karpavicz case. On June 21, 1968, I replied to Mr. Carty informing him that materials in the file of the Department could not be disclosed without prior approval of the Attorney General. I also informed him as follows:

Over 35 years have elapsed since the victim in this case was kidnapped, and we feel that no useful purpose would be served in furnishing a list of the FBI agents who may have had an active part in the investigation of the case. However, if you will outline in detail any specific factual information you desire in this matter, we will be pleased to ascertain whether it is now available and, if so, whether it can be disclosed.

As you will note, in his latest letter Mr. Carty has responded to my offer and requested the following information:

The length of time elapsing, in consecutive hours, from the commencement of the interrogation of Karpavicz in St. Paul to the conclusion thereof.

Whether or not Karpavicz was able to consult with his attorney without an agent of the Bureau being within hearing range on all occasions. In short, whether an agent (or agents) of the Bureau were kept in close proximity to Karpavicz between the time of his arrival in St. Paul and the entry of the plea.

Dear Mr. Vinson:

Re: Alvin Karpavicz
No. 9017 McNeil Island
Federal Penitentiary

This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of June 21, 1968, regarding the above matter. I regret the delay in replying but I have had an extremely busy schedule.

Apparently, my letter of May 27, 1968, was not clear. My concern was not with the investigation of the kidnapping or the victim. My inquiry is related to the events occurring between the arrest of Karpavicz and the entry of his plea. I wish to interview the agents involved to determine whether or not we can support an allegation that the plea was coerced and that, in effect, Karpavicz was denied the right to counsel.

Specifically, I wish the following information:

1. The length of time elapsing, in consecutive hours, from the commencement of the interrogation of Karpavicz in St. Paul to the conclusion thereof.

2. Whether or not Karpavicz was able to consult with his attorney without an agent of the Bureau being within hearing range on all occasions. In short, whether an agent (or agents) of the Bureau were kept in close proximity to Karpavicz between the time of his arrival in St. Paul and the entry of the plea.

From your point of view, Karpavicz is probably just another inmate that wants out. There is considerable validity in this. However, the man has been confined for more than three decades. He appears rehabilitated. People dealing with him have reached this conclusion. His record is excellent. This case has caused me some concern. If the inmate is rehabilitated, further confinement would seem to be punishment without purpose. To me, this is as appalling as imprisonment without guilt. In either event, neither society nor the inmate benefits.

It is my belief that an attorney has a duty to render assistance to the unfortunate members of our society. For this reason, I am assisting Karpavicz without compensation or any expectation thereof. Other attorneys in the midwest have agreed to assist, again, without fee. Several individuals have been kind enough to help in assembling information.

We need the names of the agents involved in the Karpavicz detention and interrogation so that we may have them interviewed. It is probable that some of these people may be deceased. It may be impossible to locate others. However, we do not feel that it is not unreasonable to expect your office to furnish us with the names of the agents involved. I do not expect your records or notes. If necessary, that may be obtained with a court order, if and when required.

Your assistance in this matter will be appreciated.

Yours very truly,

James E. Carty

Dear Mr. Carty:

This refers to your letter of May 27, 1968, regarding Alvin Karpavicz, an inmate of the United States Penitentiary, McNeil Island, Washington, who entered a plea of guilty on July 14, 1936, in the Federal Court at St. Paul, Minnesota, to an indictment charging him and others with a conspiracy to violate the Federal kidnapping law. On July 7, 1936, U. S. District Judge Matthew M. Joyce sentenced Karpavicz to a life term.

With reference to your inquiry regarding the disclosure of information in the files of this Department, subpart B of Department Order 381-67, dated June 29, 1967, prohibits the disclosure of such information without prior approval of the Attorney General. This order was published in the July 4, 1967 issue of the Federal Register at page 9662.

Over 35 years have elapsed since the victim in this case was kidnapped, and we feel that no useful purpose would be served in furnishing a list of the FBI agents who may have had an active part in the investigation of the case. However, if you will outline in detail any specific factual information you desire in this matter, we will be pleased to ascertain whether it is now available and, if so, whether it can be disclosed.

Alvin Karpis, Gangster of 1930's, Will Be Paroled

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (UPI)—Alvin Karpis, Public Enemy No. 1 in the days of Bonnie and Clyde until he was personally captured by J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, will be paroled from a kidnaping sentence and deported to Canada, the Government announced Wednesday.

The Parole Board said that Karpis, now 60 years old, would be released from the Federal penitentiary at McNeil Island, Wash., on Jan. 14 and escorted across the border to Canada, where he was born.

He will not be permitted to re-enter the United States without the board's written permission.

The parole frees the outlaw of the nineteen-thirties after he served 32 years of a life sentence for conspiring to kidnap in the 1933 abduction of William Hamm Jr., a wealthy St. Paul, Minn., businessman.

As the leader of the Karpis-Barker gang, Karpis had threatened to kill Mr. Hoover because the F.B.I. chief constantly referred to him publicly as a "rat."

He spread word that he would kill Hoover just as agents of the F.B.I. had slain his fellow gang leader, Kate (Ma) Barker, and her son, Fred, in a Florida shootout.

Mr. Hoover responded to the boast by making the first physical arrest of a criminal in his career after a three-year manhunt for Karpis.

The gang was reputed to have killed 10 persons in bank robberies and other crimes.

Mr. Hoover's arrest of Karpis came after Mr. Hamm was abducted in 1933 and released after payment of a ransom of $100,000.

Mr. Hoover has issued instructions that he wanted to be notified of any information about the hunt for Karpis.

When the gangster was spotted living in a Canal Street apartment in New Orleans, Mr. Hoover flew there with a squad of special agents to supervise the capture.

When Karpis came out of the building and climbed into his car, Mr. Hoover ran to the left side of the auto and an assistant circled to the right. Mr. Hoover reached into the car and grabbed Karpis before the fugitive could reach for a rifle on the back seat.

The Parole Board said that the Canadian Government had indicated it would accept Karpis and said that a private social welfare agency had guaranteed him a job and a home.

The decision to parole Karpis "was based on the inmate's time served in prison, his advanced age, health, excellent record in custody and the estimate he was not now a threat to public safety," the board said.

He became eligible for parole consideration in 1951, but "has been rejected annually by the board until now," it added.

Karpis, whose name is Alvin Karpavics, was born in Montreal and moved with his parents to Topeka, Kan., in 1915 when he was 7 years old.

SUBJECT: BULKY EXHIBITS -
LABORATORY DIVISION

Review of the current bulky exhibits maintained by the Laboratory Division has been completed.

In the case captioned "ALVIN KARPAVICA, aka Alvin Karpis, Kidnaping," according to recent newspaper publicity, Karpis, a native of Canada, is being paroled to Canadian authorities on condition he not return to the United States. Therefore, the .45 caliber projectile and the .45 caliber cartridge cases being maintained in the Laboratory files should be retained.

With respect to the case entitled [REDACTED], aka Fugitive, ITSP," SA William J. Farrell advises that the bulky evidence being maintained in the Laboratory files should be retained for research and that this evidence has been utilized in current examinations in regard to setting up various styles of type.

With respect to the glass photographic plates maintained for the Spectrographic Unit, these are removed on a monthly basis and are current. Certain "Specials" are maintained permanently. SA John F. Gallagher advised that these two packages are no longer needed:

- 1 - "Nov. 1955 98-43035 CRUALSAB Special" (Arson (bribery))
- 2 - "Dec. 1954 DERCOLE case" (Car theft)

RECOMMENDATIONS: (1) The bulky exhibits in the Karpis and [REDACTED] cases should be maintained until appropriate disposition is possible in each instance. (2) The Spectrographic Unit destroy the above two packages of plates.

KIDNAPING

OO: SE

On December 20, 1968, JIM TOPPING, News Manager, KIRO, Inc., a CBS radio and television affiliate at Seattle, Washington, advised there is a good possibility his firm will do a feature on ALVIN KARPIS in connection with his release from McNeil Island Penitentiary on or about January 14, 1969. In this connection, WESTON VERNON, KIRO representative at Washington, D.C., will be returning to that city on or after January 2, 1969. VERNON may contact the Bureau with a view to obtaining any comments the Director might want to make concerning crime in the 1930's, the general feeling of the times, and interesting recollections of the KARPIS case.

7-576-15555

If and when the Bureau is approached by VERNON regarding the above, it is suggested he be given the fullest cooperation possible within the limits of existing policy on the KARPIS case. No information was located in Seattle files which would preclude giving such cooperation.

SUBJECT: ALVIN KARPAVICZ, aka,
ALVIN KARPIS;

Reference memorandum W. D. Griffith to Mr. Conrad dated 5/15/69, captioned "BULKY EXHIBITS - LABORATORY DIVISION".

Referenced memorandum sets out that on 1/14/69, Karpis was released on parole from the U. S. Penitentiary, McNeil Island, Washington, and deported to Canada. Karpis is not to return to the United States under the terms of his parole.

Certain evidence has been retained in Laboratory bulky storage since 1938. These items consist of specimen K8 (four caliber .45 cartridge cases and one flattened bullet) and K11 (one caliber .45 bullet). These specimens were recovered by the Philadelphia Office following a gun battle with Karpis and Campbell in the Hotel Danmore in Atlantic City (Serial 14983). K11 and K8 were submitted to the Laboratory by Cincinnati letter of 7/21/38 (Serial 14996) and described in Laboratory report of 8/3/38 (Serial 15013) as having been fired from a Thompson Submachine gun, Serial Number 7609, forwarded to the Laboratory from Little Rock 6/6/36. This gun was forwarded to the training division at Quantico for training purposes (80-14-949).

It would appear that no purpose would be served in further retention of K8 and K11. It should be noted, however, that the Director has a personal interest in this case since he personally arrested Karpis in New Orleans.

RECOMMENDATION:

It is recommended that the Investigative Division advise whether or not the bullet and four cartridge cases, K8, and the bullet, K11, can be destroyed.

BULKY EXHIBITS - LABORATORY DIVISION

Review of the current bulky exhibits maintained by the Laboratory Division has been completed.

In the case captioned "Alvin Karpavica, aka Alvin Karpis; Kidnapping," Bureau file 7-576, reflects that on 1/14/69, Karpis was released on parole from the U. S. Penitentiary, McNeil Island, Washington. At that time Karpis was deported to Canada and under the terms of parole, Karpis is not to return to the United States. SA Robert A. Frazier, Firearms - Toolmarks Unit, advised he will make appropriate inquiries concerning disposition of the .45 caliber projectile and the .45 caliber cartridge cases currently being maintained in the Laboratory files.

With respect to the case entitled [REDACTED], aka - Fugitive; ITSP," SA William J. Farrell advises that the bulky evidence being maintained in the Laboratory files should be retained for research and that this evidence has been utilized in current examinations in regard to setting up various styles of type.

With respect to the glass photographic plates maintained for the Spectrographic Unit, these are reviewed on a monthly basis and are current.

Karpis Hits Hero Role Of Hoover

By Ken W. Clawson
Washington Post Staff Writer

Alvin Karpis, a depression-era gangster whose arrest in 1936 made J. Edgar Hoover a national hero, claims his capture created a phony legend.

A former Public Enemy No. 1, Karpis said in a newly published autobiography, "The Alvin Karpis Story," that Hoover remained behind a building while 24 FBI agents got the drop on him and gangster Freddi Barker.

Hoover "waited until he was told the coast was clear," Karpis wrote. "Then he came out to reap the glory. . . . I made Hoover's reputation as a fearless lawman. It's a reputation he doesn't deserve."

The FBI responded that Karpis was bidding for public attention to promote book sales.

An FBI spokesman said, "J. Edgar Hoover's record for honesty speaks for itself and Alvin Karpis' record for dishonesty is equally clear."

"Whose word would you trust? That of Mr. Hoover and the FBI agents who were with him when the FBI director personally arrested Karpis in New Orleans in 1936, or the word of this notorious gangster and convicted felon?"

Karpis, 64, was paroled in 1969 after 33 years in prison. He said in his book that Hoover's version of the arrest "grated on me" during his prison years.

The official FBI version of the incident is that Karpis made a move for a rifle lying on the back seat of his car as Hoover and his agents approached the vehicle. Hoover is alleged to have jerked open the door and grabbed Karpis.

But Karpis said he was in a 1936 Plymouth coupe that had no back seat. The closest rifle, he said, was locked in the car trunk.

After agents covered him with rifles and machine guns, Karpis said, an FBI agent called to Hoover — who was behind an apartment building — "We've got him. We've got him. It's all clear, chief."

Hoover then made his appearance, Karpis said.

SUBJECT: REVIEW OF BOOK
"THE ALVIN KARPIS STORY"
BY ALVIN KARPIS WITH BILL TRENT

This book which was published by Coward, McCann and Geoghegan, Incorporated, New York, New York, was reviewed in the Crime Research Section. As was to be expected, this book is replete with lies and exaggerations and misses no opportunity to make the notorious Alvin Karpis appear as heroic, intelligent and glamorous.

According to the introduction by Frank Lowe, Editor of Weekend magazine which is published in Montreal, Canada, Lowe contacted Karpis about seven years ago and kept in touch with him. When Karpis was paroled, he assigned Bill Trent, a staff writer of the magazine, to interview Karpis and write this book with him. The book is a recitation of Karpis's criminal exploits and other criminals he met over the years. No attempt is being made to refute each and every allegation made by Karpis but the major references made concerning the FBI and the Director are set out.

Page 15, Karpis claims he could have held the highest job in any line of police work because he outthought, outwitted and defeated enough cops and G-Men to recognize he was more knowledgeable about crime than any of them including J. Edgar Hoover.

Page 74, Karpis set forth a brief meeting with Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker in Joplin, Missouri. It is apparent from the book that this was their only meeting but in his television appearance on February 28th, to publicize this book he bragged that he knew both of them well.

Page 80, Karpis claims that Ma Barker was just an old-fashioned homebody from the Ozarks and not the leader of the Karpis-Barker Gang. He says that this legend was built up after her death to justify the manner in which she met her death at the hands of the FBI.

M. A. Jones to Bishop Memo
RE: BOOK REVIEW

Pages 98-99, the FBI announced in 1936 that Karpis had been lined up for capture a few months earlier in Cleveland but that someone in the local district attorney's office tipped Karpis off in time to avoid the FBI trap. A private detective, Frank Noonan, was friendly with Assistant Attorney General Joe Keenan. Noonan took Keenan and Karpis to dinner and plied Keenan with drinks. Keenan then bragged how he had convicted Harvey Bailey when everyone from Hoover on down knew that Bailey was not guilty. Keenan gave Karpis information on how many FBI Agents were in town and what tactics they were using. Keenan was unaware of Karpis's identity.

Page 114, after Dolores Delaney was convicted of harboring him, Karpis hired a lawyer in Dayton, Ohio, to appeal her sentences. The FBI descended on him, tapped his phone, shadowed him and harassed him. They wanted to scare him off the case and eventually they succeeded.

Page 146, in July, 1933, the Touhy Gang, ^{was caught} when Roger and three others were involved in an automobile accident in Elkhorn, Wisconsin. A few days later J. Edgar Hoover himself announced from Washington that his men had put together a solid case against Touhy's boys. The scientific evidence left no doubt at all that the Touhys were the men behind the kidnapping of William Hamm.

Page 169, when the father of Edward Bremer paid off the $200,000 ransom for his son, the father informed Karpis and the other kidnappers that the FBI had recorded the serial number of each and every bill. Bremer said the FBI had forced him to agree to this.

Page 176, Karpis, or his writer, shows a suspicious flair for the dramatic when he claims that he was watching "Manhattan Melodrama" in a Cleveland theater at the same time Dillinger was watching the same show on the night he was killed by FBI Agents.

Pages 206-207, "The FBI wasn't about to let up in its hunt for me and the last remaining guys of the Karpis-Barker bunch. J. Edgar Hoover himself swore to get me. He set up a propaganda machine which included publicity releases even stating that I had sent him a note threatening his life. This was strictly b s. He laid the reputation of the bureau on the line. There was absolutely no doubt, he told the newspapers, that his men would bring me in within a few weeks.

"Hoover told the public that crooked politicians were responsible for the FBI's failure to nail me. He blasted shady lawyers, ward heelers, elected officials on the take, and all the people that gangsters like me paid off. He claimed that his men had had me cornered in Atlantic City. Only the intervention of crooked public officials kept them from arresting me. Hoover said that when I was finally caught, he'd make me cough up names, dates, places, and fixes. I'd prove out of my own mouth how closely politicians were linked to me."

M. A. Jones to Bishop Memo
RE: BOOK REVIEW

Page 217, in describing the train robbery at Garrettsville, Ohio, Karpis reports trying to fire his machine gun over the head of one of the mail clerks. He claims he pulled the trigger and "The hammer fell down, but the slug didn't go off." Karpis's writer is obviously unaware that the hammer does not fall down on a machine gun.

Page 223, "we heard that Hoover guaranteed $5000 to anyone who produced information that led to our arrest."

Page 224, one night in Hot Springs, Arkansas, Grace Goldstein went to the house on Malvern Road to pick up something for Karpis. After Grace left the FBI hit the house. They rained bullets in the windows. They blew out the door. They lobbed in some flares. One flare landed on the bed and set a fire. The wreckage of the house got J. Edgar Hoover into hot water. A U.S. Senator named Joe Robinson blasted Hoover on the floor of the Senate for assaulting the empty house. Courtney Riley Cooper was paid a fabulous salary to shine up Hoover's image. Some Senators wanted to know something about Hoover's other expenses—for instance, the amount he had spent on stool pigeons to try to track me down.

Page 233, Karpis here describes his capture. He claims that he and Freddie Hunter climbed into Hunter's car with Karpis in the driver's seat. A number of men surrounded the car with rifles, shotguns and pistols. Hunter slid out of his door and calmly walked away. Someone hollered to stop the man on the sidewalk and Hunter was then ^{caught} about 100 feet down the street. There were a couple of dozen FBI Agents and at least a hundred spectators. One Agent shouted "we've got him. 'We've got him. It's all clear chief.'" J. Edgar Hoover and another man then came out from behind the building. It's interesting to note that in the book Karpis does not claim that Mr. Hoover had a .45 Colt in his hand as he claimed on his television statement of February 28th.

The last chapter from pages 235-256, describes his contact with the Director and FBI Agents after his capture. He attempts to make the Agents appear ridiculous by their methods of questioning him and their treatment of him. On the last page, Karpis notes "The story of Hoover the hero is false" and "I have nothing but contempt for J. Edgar Hoover." In the introduction Karpis is quoted as saying "I made that son of a bitch."

In T. E. Bishop to Mr. Mohr memo dated 2-25-71, it is reported that Alvin Karpis would appear on the above program and charge that the Director did not personally apprehend Karpis.

This program was monitored and a transcription of Karpis' remarks is attached.

The commentator, Edwin Newman, in his introduction noted that Karpis is about to publish a book on his experiences. As was reported in referenced memo, Karpis did charge that the Director did not make an appearance until after other Agents apprehended him.

The forceful statement which was given to NBC in answer to Karpis' charges effectively refuted Karpis' wild and untrue allegations.

OBSERVATION:

It was obvious that Karpis was reading this statement, and he gave a singularly unconvincing performance. Some of his statements were so ridiculous, such as the one that the Director was his greatest enemy and someone might spirit him back across the U. S. border, that it was obvious his purpose was to create a demand for his new book.

FEBRUARY 28, 1971

"I enjoyed being the last of the big time Public Enemies Number One. Dillinger, Pretty Boy Floyd, Baby Faced Nelson and finally me, the one they called 'Old Creepy.' Now-- I don't need it.

"I was a thief--a bank robber, a kidnaper, a train robber, a burglar, a payroll robber--and there were a few murders too. Through it all, the notoriety, the reputation, the Public Enemy Number One--I ate it up. I was also a good thief. Even the mistakes I made, I got away with. And I made a lot of money. I was young-- and I was wanted for murder in 14 States.

"Today, after spending more time in Alcatraz than any other man, 25 years, I don't repent. I'm not here to moralize. I wouldn't even say I've gone straight. I'm just not crooked any more. I can't even say crime doesn't pay. It did for me--big. I can only say it doesn't pay for me now.

"I'm living in Europe--where the living is cheap and where I've got a girl. I'm really afraid of spending too much time in Canada, where I was born, because I do have enemies pretty close--J. Edgar Hoover is still the biggest of them--and I'm afraid of being poured alcohol over one day and spirited back across the border.

"Now I'd like to set a few stories straight. Stories that have become pretty famous unstraight.

"Let's start with Bonnie and Clyde. Yes, I've seen the picture. For one thing, Bonnie was no Faye Dunaway, she was a tiny, squinty-eyed, dumb-faced sharecropper. Clyde Barrow was more like Warren Beatty played him. He made a nice appearance. I got to know them both well in Joplin--but they weren't in my league--and they never robbed a bank in their lives.

"They robbed general stores, filling stations--like in the beginning of the picture--but they never graduated to banks. One story is true. They were small-time, and dumb, and they were kids, but they were killers. They did kill half a dozen law men in Texas and Oklahoma and they did it in cold blood. They weren't romantic though, a word I keep hearing about the movie.

"Ma Barker was the biggest legend of them all. She did have four sons, every one a killer, and every one met a violent death. But it was the sons and me that made the Barker-Karpis gang, she never was in it. The "Bloody Mama" of murder the movies and the FBI made her out to be, never was. Her sons never even let her know about the jobs they were doing. And, like Bonnie Parker, she was just a dumb Ozark hillbilly, with four killer sons instead of one killer lover. And if the movies have made romantics out of Bonnie and Clyde, the FBI mimeograph machine has made a monster out of that old front porch lady. Ma Barker was a myth.

"But I guess I was a kind of myth too. The story the G-men let out was that J. Edgar Hoover personally snuk up on me while I was at the wheel of my car in New Orleans, and grabbed me as I was reaching for a rifle in the back seat.

"I have never told this before. It would only have hurt during all those years in Alcatraz--but Mr. Hoover wasn't even in sight. I wasn't armed. There couldn't have been a rifle in the back because it was a coupe--there was no back seat.

"The fact is, a car full of Agents had cut me off, two of them came at my windshield with rifles and machine guns, a dozen showed their guns and faces from windows all around. They pulled me from the car--and then came a Keystone Comedy. One said, 'Put your hands up,' one said, 'Keep 'em at your side,' one said, 'Sit on the running board,' another said, 'Lay down on the street.' They didn't even have handcuffs. They had to tie my hands with a necktie.

"I like to think I was pretty cool, I asked who the boss was. A stocky, barrel-chested man in a blue serge suit, a gray snap-brim and a .45 colt in his hand came out from behind the house. That's when I first saw J. Edgar Hoover. 'We've got him,' one of the Agents shouted. 'It's all clear, Chief.' That's how J. Edgar Hoover captured the last of the Public Enemies single-handed.

"I'm sorry to have to say, after all is said and done, that I have nothing but contempt for Mr. Hoover now. I don't want to sound like another bitter ex-con putting the rap on the cop who arrested him. J. Edgar Hoover never arrested me. Twenty-eight G-men did-- and then Hoover came out of hiding. I challenge him to prove me a liar."

Bishop was contacted on the afternoon of 2/25/71 by Frank Jordan, Bureau Chief of NBC-TV News, Washington, D. C., who stated that NBC has a network television show entitled "Comment" each Sunday on which appear persons who are of some news interest and who "speak their minds." He stated that on the forthcoming Sunday's program, 2/28/71, one of the individuals who will be on the program is Alvin Karpis, a former "Public Enemy #1," who was recently released from a Federal penitentiary and is believed to be presently living in Canada. He stated that the script of Karpis' appearance, which has already been filmed, reflects that one of the things discussed by Karpis is his apprehension in New Orleans on April 30, 1936. Karpis states that the story of the details of the apprehension, as given out by the FBI, are not factual and he claims that he was never apprehended by the Director. He states that the story that he was arrested by the Director, who ran to the left side of Karpis' car just after Karpis climbed into it, reaching into the car and grabbing Karpis before he could reach for a rifle on the back seat, is not correct, claiming that there was no rifle on the back seat and that the car was a coupe. Karpis also claims that he was actually arrested by "26 FBI Agents" who surrounded him in a car outside of a building where he was residing and, after he was in their custody, although he was not handcuffed because no handcuffs could be located, one of the FBI Agents called out "it's all clear Chief"; with that, according to Karpis, Mr. Hoover came out from behind a building with a .45 pistol on his hip.

Jordan desired to know if the FBI wished to make any statement concerning the version of the arrest given by Karpis.

Re: ALVIN KARPIS

It is understood that Karpis has written a book, which will be published sometime this year, and, undoubtedly, his appearance on the program is to gain publicity to help sell the book. The correct and factual version of how Karpis was apprehended by the Director and a group of FBI Agents is set forth on pages 108 and 109 of "The FBI Story," the best-selling book by Don Whitehead. Even though it galls one to think that NBC would give air time to a convicted felon like Karpis, it is not felt that we should let him get away with his fictionalized version of history nor permit him to, in effect, call the Director a liar. Therefore, it is felt that we should advise NBC that an FBI spokesman may be quoted as making the following statement concerning Karpis' claim:

"J. Edgar Hoover's record for honesty speaks clearly for itself; and Alvin Karpis' record of dishonesty is equally clear. Whose word would you trust? That of Mr. Hoover and the FBI Agents who were with him at the time the FBI Director personally arrested Karpis in New Orleans in 1936 or the word of this notorious gangster and convicted felon?"

"It is no small coincidence that Karpis has made this bid for public attention and headlines at a time when he reportedly has a book of his memoirs pending publication."

RECOMMENDATION:

It is recommended that Bishop be authorized to furnish the above statement as an "FBI spokesman" to Frank Jordan of NBC News.

Dear Mr. Schroeder:

Your letter was received on April 5th and I want to thank you for your generous remarks regarding my work. Your support is most encouraging and means a great deal to me.

In response to your inquiry, the specific case to which you referred involved the arrest of Alvin Karpis, a member of the Barker-Karpis gang who bragged he would kill me. Karpis was wanted for murder by state authorities and by the FBI for kidnaping. Additional information can be found in the book by Don Whitehead entitled "The FBI Story." It may be available in your local library. With regard to the recent comments of Karpis, I do not feel I want to dignify his remarks by any type of reply.

Dear Sir;

I recently heard on the news, John William Klauser give his account of an incident in which he was captured long ago. He said that you instead of capturing him single-handedly as you claim, waited until your men had very inefficiently caught him. He then said you came out of hiding and claimed the credit.

I have long admired your work in law enforcement, as most Americans have. I believe you have done much to help prevent crime in our country. I do not actually believe this criminal, but I would still like to hear your account of the scene. I would appreciate it if you could take time to write to me.

Dear Sir:

In 1966 I wrote the Bureau regarding $100,000⁰⁰ missing of Bremer Kidnapping in January 1934 from a story in a mens magazine. About 10 days later a Mr. Felt called me from local office and proceeded to give me a third degree over the phone which I thought was rather hilarious. At the conclusion he did admit the money was still missing. According to story it was suppose to be buried between Rochester and Chatfield, Minn. It was in 5 and 10 dollar bills with numbers recorded. In the years since the story has appeared in several "Treasure" magazines. Has this money ever been located? In the July issue of Frontier Times I saw a notice for map dowsers (people claiming to be able to locate objects on a county or Geological map). I sent a county map to a woman in Orlean and she pinpointed a location that she said that the money had been buried there but could not tell if it was still there. This was her first experience with anything beside water of which she has be quite successful.

I am planning on contacting the local Narcotics bureau to show them how it could be possible to locate drugs hidden in a house or car. I have been able to locate a fifty dollar bill hidden in a house three times out of three times. This convinced my friends. I located a piece of gold so small it had to be cemented to paper. Bernard Goodman, New York based Vice President of Warner Brothers, advised today that Warner Bros., in conjunction with QM Productions, has signed a contract with the Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) Television Network to do two 2-hour feature films for the 1974-75 television season; 2 additional for the 1975-76 season with an option to do 2 more for the 1976-77 television season.

The first film is already tentatively scheduled for telecasting on "Thursday Night at the Movies" on 10/24/74, and it is to highlight the activities of Alvin Karpis with particular reference to the apprehension of Karpis by the late Director J. Edgar Hoover.

According to Goodman, Quinn Martin intends to personally supervise the production of these films as Executive Producer, however, Philip Saltzman, who was Producer of our television series, "The FBI" during its most successful seasons, has been retained to produce these films.

It was pointed out to Goodman that Alvin Karpis was released from prison several years ago, has appeared on talk shows in which he was critical of the FBI and the late Director and, undoubtedly, he could take exception to "his story" being told without his permission on the basis of invasion of privacy.

Goodman advised that the legal department at QM has already taken this possibility into account and feels confident that a television presentation involving Karpis could be prepared with no problem. Goodman noted that in the course of their research the

Re: WARNER BROTHERS AND QUINN MARTIN PRODUCTIONS

QM legal staff has determined that Karpis himself has written a book concerning his activities, expressed, of course, from his viewpoint, and because of this has for the most part obviated any argument on his part regarding invasion of his privacy.

With respect to the subsequent films for which they have contracted, Goodman indicates that no firm plans have been made for the subject matter of these presentations and feels that each could highlight a major investigation which would clearly define the work of the FBI in the most favorable terms.

Goodman, in contacting us, is now requesting an opportunity to sit down and discuss this matter with us in the hope that we would be willing to cooperate in this venture by reviewing scripts and providing whatever technical assistance that would be necessary to insure these films are first class productions in the tradition of the television series "The FBI" and accurately reflect the responsibilities and realities of the FBI. He has also requested any public source material which we might have for use in preparing a suitable script on the activities of Alvin Karpis.

He was advised that we would be back in touch with him.

Observation:

"Made for television" motion pictures could be of great benefit to the FBI in keeping our name before the public provided the scripts for them are written and produced so as to reflect the realities of the FBI and are in good taste. Goodman's disclaimers notwithstanding, I still have serious reservations regarding a film on the activities of Karpis in that such a presentation caters to the current vogue of indulging in nostalgia on television by highlighting the 30's, 40's and 50's. In this vein, films on Pretty Boy Floyd and Melvin Purvis were telecast during the past television season and were not only tasteless and devoid of entertainment value, but more importantly distorted the role of the FBI.

It is strongly felt that prior to agreeing to any involvement in Warner Bros.- QM's present film project, that representatives from both organizations be invited to FBI Headquarters to discuss this project in detail.

Re: WARNER BROTHERS AND QUINN MARTIN PRODUCTIONS

It is noted that the July, 1974, issue of "Argosy," not yet on the newsstands, will carry a story on Alvin Karpis, highlighting the Bremer kidnaping case. We cooperated with "Argosy" in the preparation of this piece and had considerable discussion with the "Argosy" staff concerning it. In this regard, we permitted use of Interesting Case Writeup #7-576 entitled "The Kidnaping of Edward George Bremer, St. Paul, Minnesota," which is the history and early association of the Karpis-Barker Gang prior to the abduction of Bremer as a basis for the story on the condition that to the maximum, reasonable extent, the true identities of persons would be concealed by pseudonyms. "Argosy" agreed to this condition. Legal Counsel acknowledged that Karpis' name could be used since he was a principal figure in this case and had been subjected to publicity with respect to the case to the extent that a pseudonym would not conceal his true identity. Our Legal Counsel feels we can make this writeup available to QM on the same basis.

RECOMMENDATIONS:

(1) That I be permitted to advise Bernard Goodman that the Bureau, while very interested in this project, wishes to sit down and discuss it with representatives of Warner Brothers and QM Productions before making any decisions regarding participation in terms of script review and technical assistance.

*From Adrian

(2) That, for the interim, in line with his request, public source material on Alvin Karpis be sent to Quinn Martin, to include the Interesting Case Writeup on the kidnaping of Edward George Bremer, with appropriate pseudonyms incorporated to conceal the true identities of innocent parties named in this writeup.

Dear Mr. Bass:

This is to acknowledge your letter of September 29th requesting information concerning "Ma" Barker.

A check of our central records indicates our files on the "Barker-Karpis Gang" consist of over 300 volumes. The processing of this material for information pertinent to your request would obviously involve a substantial amount of time, and under current regulations we are authorized to charge a fee for services expended in locating and making available records. The fee schedule, set forth in Title 28, Code of Federal Regulations, Section 16.9, includes charges for clerical search time at the rate of $5 per hour, and other fees for reproduction and screening of documents.

I wish to advise you a preliminary file review indicates only a limited amount of information regarding Kate Barker's early home life is contained in our files, since our investigative interest in her developed subsequent to her marriage. Previous research in this area conducted by us discloses she was born in the vicinity of Ash Grove, Missouri, known as the Ozark country, of Scotch-Irish parents, and was apparently reared in the vicinity of the place of her birth.

Dear Sir,

Alvin KARPIS

I am writing a documentary book on Ma Barker and the ~~Barker-~~
Karpis gang which, as you know, operated in the late 20s and the first half of the 1930s.

I have done considerable research on the Barker family, my search ranging from Missouri to the east coast. Although I have assembled much material on this project, I am deficient especially in information concerning her early home life prior to her marriage at the age of 20 to George Barker.
I understand she was named Arizona Dornie Clark when she was born in 1872 in the Ozark hills about 18 miles northwest of Springfield, Missouri. My further knowledge concerning her early family life is limited to a few generalities; I have no knowledge of her next-of-kin, for example.

I realize this gang is literally a dead issue with the Bureau. Although your files on this case are no doubt purged, I thought it possible that I might have the information from a microfilm record, without causing too much trouble. This is a serious undertaking for me, in that I wish to authenticate all my information before publication in book form; I knew that the Federal Bureau of Investigation is the best source in a case like this.

Hoping you can help me flesh out the account of her early home life, I thank you for your consideration.

It is understood that any such material will be quoted only with your permission, and that the Bureau will be duly credited in the book to be published.
